Stevenson, Bowles Named Too

Kennedy Appoints Rusk U. S. Secretary Of State

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy today picked Dean Rusk, head of the Rockefeller Foundation, to be his secretary of state.

Kennedy also announced at a news conference the appointment of Adlai Stevenson as ambassador to the United Nations.

And he named Rep. Chester Bowles, D-Conn., as undersecretary of state.

The three appointments were announced by the president-elect on the patio of his Atlantic shore home.

Rusk, a Democrat who served as an assistant secretary of state in the Truman administration, was at his side. Stevenson and Bowles were not present.

Kennedy offered the U.N. ambassadorship to Stevenson, the 1952 and 1956 Democratic presidential nominee, last week. But Stevenson asked for time to think it over — apparently wanting to know first who would be secretary of state.

The announcement of Stevenson's appointment meant, therefore, that he was willing to serve under Rusk.

Rusk, 51, is a native of Georgia and a Presbyterian. He has been head of the Rockefeller Foundation for nine years.

Kennedy, reading a prepared statement, said Rusk would bring to the new administration and his particular position a long record of ability in the field of foreign affairs.

The president-elect mentioned specifically Rusk's former association with the State Department.

On the new administration's foreign policy, Kennedy said he hoped that it will become generally identified with the concept of being "for freedom," and not simply anti-communist.

Rusk told the news conference he is accepting "a compelling and sober responsibility."

He called Stevenson "one of our greatest Americans," and also praised Bowles warmly.

Rusk said the present age is one of rapid and revolutionary change, but added that there need be no fear of the changes.

The United States, he added, cannot be likened to a cork tossed about on the waves.

In response to a question, Kennedy said he met Rusk for the first time last week.

Rusk arrived at Kennedy's ocean front home Sunday evening, but there was no word to reporters that he was on hand until this morning.

Kennedy said he and Rusk had both talked by telephone to Stevenson and Bowles.

Asked whether Stevenson was satisfied with the selection of Rusk for the top foreign policy post, Kennedy replied he is confident that the relationship is a satisfactory one to all concerned.

Kennedy said he plans to appoint another undersecretary of state — one who will have charge of economic affairs.

And he said he hopes to announce another Cabinet appointment by Wednesday.

Rusk's appointment is the first to one of what have been called the "big three" Cabinet posts. The others are secretary of the treasury and secretary of defense.

Office Safe With $615 Hauled Away

Newspaper Agency's Strongbox Taken By Weekend Intruders

Police continued a search today for burglars who hauled away an 800-pound safe containing $615.86 in cash and checks late Saturday night or early Sunday from the Tri-State News Agency Co. office at 217 Union St.

Frank Potts of Longview Heights, owner of the newspaper distributing concern, told police the safe contained $461.13 in cash and $154.73 in checks.

The cash included $118 in profits from a soft drink vending machine which had been allowed to accumulate to finance a Christmas party for the employes and their families.

Mounted on casters, the safe apparently was wheeled through the building to a loading dock and then hoisted onto a parked truck. Although no sign of forcible entry could be discovered, the intruders apparently made their way into the building between 10:20 p. m. Saturday and 12:45 a. m. Sunday, police said.

In a similar burglary Nov. 26, a 500-pound safe was removed from the Sohio Service Station on W. 8th St., operated by James A. Moore of Lisbon St.

The safe was found abondoned Tuesday on a farm off Route 168 in the Ohioville area back of Midland. It had been forced open and looted of $590 in cash and $284 in checks.

The safe taken from Tri-State is about 47 inches high and 32 inches wide. Painted green, it bears the manufacturer's name: Herring, Hall and Marvin.

The burglary was discovered by two employes who arrived to begin the distribution of Sunday papers. Jake Sell, a high school student, was first to arrive, followed closely by Orval Schoolcraft, another employe. Within a few minutes, Potts arrived. He notified police.

Radeschi Gives Tips To Help Nip Burglars

Police Chief Americo J. Radeschi today appealed for the co-operation of residents in stamping out the current wave of burglaries.

"Police should be notified of suspicious strangers or cars in a neighborhood and householders should be alert to anonymous telephone calls," the chief said.

"If you plan on being away for an evening, advise your neighbors and ask them to keep a watch on your home and notify police if they see suspicious strangers or autos," the chief said.

The burglars apparently are using the telephone to determine whether anyone is home, the chief explained. In the burglaries at the William Kaiser and T. H. Kashuba homes, anonymous phone calls were received before the burglaries occurred, Radeschi explained.

$100 Stolen By Burglars Hunting Safe

Mrs. L. C. Boice Tied With Adhesive Tape, Questioned By Pair

An 83-year-old woman was bound with adhesive tape and slapped by two gunmen who forced their way into her home Saturday night in a search for money, finally fleeing with $100 after ransacking the house in a fruitless hunt for a safe or large quantities of cash.

The victim is Mrs. L. C. Boice, who was bound and slapped at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. (Pete) Kaiser, 1955 St. Clair Ave., where she resides.

The robbers forced their way into the home about 6:45 Saturday night, shortly after Mr. and Mrs. Kaiser left for dinner at a Youngstown restaurant, leaving Mrs. Boice alone.

Mrs. Boice apparently came through the ordeal unhurt except for a few bruises, her son-in-law reported. The intruders obtained only some old coins and some money which Mrs. Kaiser had collected for women's organizations, he added.

Shortly after Mr. and Mrs. Kaiser left for Youngstown, the telephone rang and a male voice asked first for Kaiser and then for his wife. Told that both were absent, the man hung up.

About 6:45, there was a knock on the back door. Mrs. Boice, responding, found two well-dressed men standing outside the door. When she opened the door, the two men forced their way in. One carried a gun.

"You're not coming in here," Mrs. Boice told the men.

"Oh, yes we are," one of them replied.

The two men took Mrs. Boice to the den, threw her on the floor and bound her wrists and ankles with adhesive tape. They removed her glasses and then covered her head with her apron to block her vision.

The two questioned her about money and the location of a supposed safe, but she replied that there was no safe in the house and no large quantity of money.

During the questioning, the men slapped Mrs. Boice to induce her to reply and to silence her screams.

Finally satisfied that they would get no information from Mrs. Boice, the two ransacked the house thoroughly in the search for money, finally gathering together the $100 in various places.

After about a half-hour, the men left the way they had come.

About 7:30, Mrs. Neil Shope of Blazer Ln. arrived to visit her mother, as is her custom on Saturday night. She found Mrs. Boice still bound and lying on the floor of the den.

Mrs. Shope telephoned a physician and called police.

Kaiser commented that the men "must have been professionals because they came prepared with adhesive tape." He added that the family never keeps large quantities of money in the house.

He said Mrs. Boice did not hear the two gunmen call each other by name. She said they were neat-appearing "and didn't look like robbers."

Mr. and Mrs. Kaiser returned home from Youngstown about 9. Kaiser is the former proprietor of the Dixie Diner and formerly served on City Council. He now is a real estate salesman.

Thieves also carried off a strongbox containing bonds and assorted documents Friday night or early Saturday from the home of T. K.

79 Dead, Hundreds Hurt

DeGaulle Ends Algerian Trip As Rioting Resumes

ALGIERS (AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle is cutting short his peace tour of Algeria and hurrying back to Paris a day early.

The sudden switch in the French president's plans was disclosed today as his campaign to give Algeria home-rule came under twin hammer blows.

Bloody rioting in Algiers for the second consecutive day pushed the casualty totals to 79 dead and hundreds wounded. Four others have been killed in Oran.

Moslems battled French troops this morning after fierce clashes Sunday with European settlers in the biggest bloodbath in the North African territory since the nationalist revolt againt France began six years ago.

From Tunis the Algerian national rebel government in exile rejected the De Gaulle program, declaring it would only aggravate the rebellion.

Rebel Premier Ferhat Abbas said "no Algerian worthy of the name would lend himself to such a masquerade." He called for United Nations intervention in Algeria.

Shortly after noon a special squad of mobile police flown from France during the night began to move into Algiers' ancient Casbah.

They advanced into the teeming native city from government square, ripping down rebel flags and driving Moslems back.

A Moslem command post set up in the Casbah was abandoned as the mobile police moved up the twisting and narrow streets.

As the police and troops moved through areas swept by Sunday's violent Moslem-European clashes, more bodies were found.

Military headquarters reported that in the Belcourt area troops found the bodies of several Moslems known to have been pro-French.

The French president will end his handshaking search for support of his self-determination policy for Algeria on Tuesday, a full day earlier than planned, and return to Paris.

No official reason was given but the uprisings Sunday in Algiers and Oran bordering on open insurrection may have led to his decision to hurry back to the seat of government.

Resentment against his trip to spread his program of home rule for Algeria touched off right-wing Europeans to riot in Algiers and Oran. The Moslem masses broke their sullen silence to get into the fighting.

Restless crowds of Europeans and Moslems began massing again today on the streets of embattled Algiers. Explosions, presumably from concussion grenades thrown by police, were heard in the Belcourt workers' area.

Ambulances screamed through the city, taking wounded from scattered clashes to hospitals. Public transportation was paralyzed and the great seaport district was silent as a general strike called by rightist extremists rolled into its third day. Most shops were closed.

De Gaulle revised his schedule today. Instead of visiting Collo, a small city on the coast in eastern Algeria, and Philippeville, he was making trips to several military posts in the L'Aure region. It was in this mountainous area that the Moslem rebellion against French rule in Algeria broke out six years ago.

De Gaulle spent Sunday night at Bougie and at daybreak left by car for a helicopter base at D'Ain-Arnat near Setif.

He was far from the roaring gun battles and street fights between thousands of European settlers and Moslems that raged in the streets of Algiers and Oran Sunday.

French paratroops fired on rampaging Moslems in Algiers in the bloodiest clash since the nationalist rebellion broke out six years ago.

Before nightfall, 61 persons lay dead in the streets of the capital—55 Moslems, 5 Europeans and one French police officer. Four persons were killed in the Oran fighting.

Behind the long-feared outbreak of smouldering hatred between right-wing European settlers and Moslems were two underground organizations—the European rightists' Front for A French Algeria (FAF), and the rebels' National Liberation Front (FLN).

Laos Moves To Oust Red Party Power

VIENTIANNE, Laos (AP)—A majority of the Laos Parliament today moved to oust the day-old pro-Communist government of Quinim Pholsena.

Assembly President Tiao Somsanith left Savannakhet for Luang Prabang to ask King Savang Vatthana to summon a special Assembly session, according to a dispatch from the AP correspondent at the rightist headquarters.

Rightist rebel deputies, holding 38 of 58 Assembly seats, stood ready to vote a quick death to the Quinim regime.

Savannakhet radio earlier claimed the Assembly already had voted to dissolve Quinim's government.

Quinim, minister of information in the old neutralist regime who seized power in Vientiane when government leaders fled, declared defiantly today: "We will fight to the last bullet if they attack us."

Quinim indicated he would defy the assemblymen and possibly even King Vathama himself if the king comes out against the Vientiane regime.

The Soviet Union rushed arms and supplies by air to the leftists holding the capital, which is surrounded by right-wing pro-Western forces led by Gen. Phoumi Nosavan.

Neighboring Communist China and North Viet Nam are expected to lend their support to Quinim.

He had just returned from Hanoi, North Viet Nam's capital, when he seized power from a six-man junta and brought Laos its third change of government in four days.

The majority of the National Assembly, which fled to Gen. Phoumi's headquarters in Savannakhet, voted no confidence in Quinim's government Sunday night, according to a Savannakhet radio broadcast today.

It said the Vientiane government, which is still officially headed by neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma but controlled by acting Premier Quinim, "is dissolved and stripped of all constitutional rights and powers."

Quinim took over the Laotian government Sunday from a military junta which had headed it for barely 24 hours.

Juror Selection Opens In Salem Murder Case

LISBON — Selection of a jury was under way this morning in the Common Pleas Court trial of Frank W. Fish, 56, of Salem R.D. 3, charged with second degree murder in the death of his son-in-law Aug. 3.

Fish, a truck farmer and the father of 13, was indicted for the shotgun slaying of Wyman Leroy Capps, 37, formerly of Jasper, Ala., at Fish farmhouse along Egypt Rd. southeast of Salem.

Attorneys were questioning the jury venire late this morning as the trial began before Judge Raymond S. Buzzard.

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Fourteen persons were killed and 40 injured in three accidents during Argentina's Gran Prix stock car races Sunday. Most of the victims were struck by two cars which plunged off the track and into crowds of spectators.

Boycott Seen Continuing At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—Public school integration moved into its fourth week here today, and School Superintendent James F. Redmond predicted a near-complete white boycott at two elementary schools would stand firm.

Gov. Jimmie H. Davis forged ahead with Louisiana's anti-integration battle. He called the legislature into its third straight special session. The new 30-day meeting will start Saturday.

"I think," Dr. Redmond said, "there are about as many white students in William Frantz School as we're going to see in there for a while. I think the boycott will hold pretty well this week."

White attendance rose to a peak of 23 at William Frantz last Tuesday, but slipped back to eight by Friday. No whites now attend McDonogh 19 school.

Four Negro first-grade girls have gone to the two integrated schools since Nov. 14.

Davis' third session call contained a provision for a possible boost of one cent in the statewide sales tax to raise an extra $45 million annually. The money would promote private segregated schools and bolster state revenues for other purposes.

The House Sunday night passed a concurrent resolution cancelling pay for teachers at the two integrated schools—unless they quit.

The New Orleans School Board immediately announced teachers at Frantz and McDonogh 19 would be paid "at the same time all other teachers are paid."

Flurries Seen Atop District's Snow Buildup

Temperature Slated To Take Sharp Drop In Region Tonight

More snow flurries are due this afternoon and tonight in the wake of a storm which dumped 4 inches of the white stuff on the East Liverpool area Sunday, the Ohio weatherman said.

Street and highway crews were continuing to battle to restore traffic to normal after the season's heaviest snowfall, which began about 10 Sunday morning and continued into last night.

Despite the storm, traffic moved with comparative ease on main streets and highways this morning. In most cases, the main thoroughfares were covered with about 2 inches of powdery snow.

Salt and cinder crews were called to duty when the snow began to accumulate Sunday afternoon.

Pre-Winter Storm

Snow Blankets U.S. East, Causing Some 15 Deaths

By The Associated Press

A pre-winter snow-ice storm, sweeping out of the Southwest and across the midlands, struck damaging blows in the eastern part of the nation today.

The first heavy snow of the season, up to a foot in some areas, blanketed wide areas eastward to the Atlantic Coast and into parts of the South.

The snow, strong winds and freezing weather came 10 days before winter's official start.

The storm was blamed for at least 15 deaths over the weekend. Most of them resulted from traffic accidents on icy or snow-covered streets or from over-exertion while shoveling snow.

Nearly a foot of snow piled up in the western Maryland mountain region. In northern Virginia, with more than six inches on the ground, falls of a foot were predicted.

Snow measured nearly a foot in the West Virginia eastern Panhandle. Between 4 and 8 inches covered areas in Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey and foot-high falls were in prospect in some sections of Pennsylvania.

Heavy snow was forecast from southeastern Pennsylvania northeastward into southern Maine.

Traffic was a mess in the big cities and the drifting snow was

Herter Says NATO Able To Meet Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter expressed confidence today in the ability of the North Atlantic Alliance to meet "the changing conditions of the coming decade."

In a statement prepared for his departure for an Allied foreign ministers conference at Paris, Herter made no specific reference to proposals for creating a separate NATO nuclear rocket striking force.

However, he was known to be taking with him a number of suggestions as to how such a force might be created.

These suggestions cover the possibility that the United States may provide Europe's NATO command with several hundred Polaris missiles which would be subject to use by NATO rather than U.S. decision.

As the spokesman for the outgoing Eisenhower administration, Herter will not be in a position in Paris to make any commitment about future U.S. policy when he meets with other ministers of the 15-nation NATO Council Dec. 16-18.

Final decisions will be up to President-elect John F. Kennedy after he takes office Jan. 20.

'DON'T DRIVE LIKE 60'

A young New Middletown driver was injured fatally in one of a rash of one-car traffic mishaps occuring within an hour and a half late Saturday night as ice began covering Columbiana County highways prior to Sunday's snow.

Three accidents Sunday as the snowfall became heavier and made driving conditions treacherous in the area found an elderly Wellsville woman injured on Route 45 between Lisbon and Salem.

The fatality occurred Saturday night at 11:45 on ice-slicked Route 14, about a mile and a half east of Route 7, the Lisbon State Highway Patrol reported today.

The victim was Milan P. Stacey, 26, of New Middletown, whose 1954 coach left the highway and struck a utility pole.

Mr. Stacy suffered a fractured neck, crushed chest and fractured right leg. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Salem City Hospital.

He was Columbiana County's 25th traffic victim of 1960, compared to 26 for the same date in 1959.

Three other mishaps late Saturday night occurred between 10:30 and 11:45 when a fine mist began falling and covered area roads with a sheet of ice as the temperatures dropped below freezing, the patrol said. All were minor and involved drivers from Salem and Petersburg who slid from the highway but escaped injury, the patrol reported.

Elizabeth M. Pugh, 65, of 1335 Buckeye Ave., Wellsville, was injured Sunday at 12:30 p. m. when her 1953 car overturned on Route 45, about three miles north of Lisbon.

Office Safe With $615 Hauled Away

Newspaper Agency's Strongbox Taken By Weekend Intruders

Police continued a search today for burglars who hauled away an 800-pound safe containing $615.86 in cash and checks late Saturday night or early Sunday from the Tri-State News Agency Co. office at 217 Union St.

Frank Potts of Longview Heights, owner of the newspaper distributing concern, told police the safe contained $461.13 in cash and $154.73 in checks.

The cash included $118 in profits from a soft drink vending machine which had been allowed to accumulate to finance a Christmas party for the employes and their families.

Mounted on casters, the safe apparently was wheeled through the building to a loading dock and then hoisted onto a parked truck. Although no sign of forcible entry could be discovered, the intruders apparently made their way into the building between 10:20 p. m. Saturday and 12:45 a. m. Sunday, police said.

In a similar burglary Nov. 26, a 500-pound safe was removed from the Sohio Service Station on W. 8th St., operated by James A. Moore of Lisbon St.

The safe was found abondoned Tuesday on a farm off Route 168 in the Ohioville area back of Midland. It had been forced open and looted of $590 in cash and $284 in checks.

The safe taken from Tri-State is about 47 inches high and 32 inches wide. Painted green, it bears the manufacturer's name: Herring, Hall and Marvin.

The burglary was discovered by two employes who arrived to begin the distribution of Sunday papers. Jake Sell, a high school student, was first to arrive, followed closely by Orval Schoolcraft, another employe. Within a few minutes, Potts arrived. He notified police.

Radeschi Gives Tips To Help Nip Burglars

Police Chief Americo J. Radeschi today appealed for the co-operation of residents in stamping out the current wave of burglaries.

"Police should be notified of suspicious strangers or cars in a neighborhood and householders should be alert to anonymous telephone calls," the chief said.

"If you plan on being away for an evening, advise your neighbors and ask them to keep a watch on your home and notify police if they see suspicious strangers or autos," the chief said.

The burglars apparently are using the telephone to determine whether anyone is home, the chief explained. In the burglaries at the William Kaiser and T. H. Kashuba homes, anonymous phone calls were received before the burglaries occurred, Radeschi explained.

Flurries Seen Atop District's Snow Buildup

Temperature Slated To Take Sharp Drop In Region Tonight

More snow flurries are due this afternoon and tonight in the wake of a storm which dumped 4 inches of the white stuff on the East Liverpool area Sunday, the Ohio weatherman said.

Street and highway crews were continuing to battle to restore traffic to normal after the season's heaviest snowfall, which began about 10 Sunday morning and continued into last night.

Despite the storm, traffic moved with comparative ease on main streets and highways this morning. In most cases, the main thoroughfares were covered with about 2 inches of powdery snow.

Salt and cinder crews were called to duty when the snow began to accumulate Sunday afternoon.

Edwin Copeland, U.S. weather observer at Millport, reported an

Herter Says NATO Able To Meet Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter expressed confidence today in the ability of the North Atlantic Alliance to meet "the changing conditions of the coming decade."

In a statement prepared for his departure for an Allied foreign ministers conference at Paris, Herter made no specific reference to proposals for creating a separate NATO nuclear rocket striking force.

However, he was known to be taking with him a number of suggestions as to how such a force might be created.

These suggestions cover the possibility that the United States may provide Europe's NATO command with several hundred Polaris missiles which would be subject to use by NATO rather than U.S. decision.

As the spokesman for the outgoing Eisenhower administration, Herter will not be in a position in Paris to make any commitment about future U.S. policy when he meets with other ministers of the 15-nation NATO Council Dec. 16-18.

Final decisions will be up to President-elect John F. Kennedy after he takes office Jan. 20.

Young Driver Loses Life On Icy Highways

Mahoning Motorist's Car Leaves Route 7, Strikes Utility Pole

'DON'T DRIVE LIKE 60'

A young New Middletown driver was injured fatally in one of a rash of one-car traffic mishaps occuring within an hour and a half late Saturday night as ice began covering Columbiana County highways prior to Sunday's snow.

Three accidents Sunday as the snowfall became heavier and made driving conditions treacherous in the area found an elderly Wellsville woman injured on Route 45 between Lisbon and Salem.

The fatality occurred Saturday night at 11:45 on ice-slicked Route 14, about a mile and a half east of Route 7, the Lisbon State Highway Patrol reported today.

The victim was Milan P. Stacey, 26, of New Middletown, whose 1954 coach left the highway and struck a utility pole.

Mr. Stacy suffered a fractured neck, crushed chest and fractured right leg. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Salem City Hospital.

He was Columbiana County's 25th traffic victim of 1960, compared to 26 for the same date in 1959.

Three other mishaps late Saturday night occurred between 10:30 and 11:45 when a fine mist began falling and covered area roads with a sheet of ice as the temperatures dropped below freezing, the patrol said. All were minor and involved drivers from Salem and Petersburg who slid from the highway but escaped injury, the patrol reported.

Elizabeth M. Pugh, 65, of 1335 Buckeye Ave., Wellsville, was injured Sunday at 12:30 p. m. when her 1953 car overturned on Route 45, about three miles north of Lisbon.

Pre-Winter Storm

Snow Blankets U.S. East, Causing Some 15 Deaths

By The Associated Press

A pre-winter snow-ice storm, sweeping out of the Southwest and across the midlands, struck damaging blows in the eastern part of the nation today.

The first heavy snow of the season, up to a foot in some areas, blanketed wide areas eastward to the Atlantic Coast and into parts of the South.

The snow, strong winds and freezing weather came 10 days before winter's official start.

The storm was blamed for at least 15 deaths over the weekend. Most of them resulted from traffic accidents on icy or snow-covered streets or from over-exertion while shoveling snow.

Nearly a foot of snow piled up in the western Maryland mountain region. In northern Virginia, with more than six inches on the ground, falls of a foot were predicted.

Snow measured nearly a foot in the West Virginia eastern Panhandle. Between 4 and 8 inches covered areas in Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey and foot-high falls were in prospect in some sections of Pennsylvania.

Heavy snow was forecast from southeastern Pennsylvania northeastward into southern Maine.

Traffic was a mess in the big cities and the drifting snow was

$100 Stolen By Burglars Hunting Safe

Mrs. L. C. Boice Tied With Adhesive Tape, Questioned By Pair

An 83-year-old woman was bound with adhesive tape and slapped by two gunmen who forced their way into her home Saturday night in a search for money, finally fleeing with $100 after ransacking the house in a fruitless hunt for a safe or large quantities of cash.

The victim is Mrs. L. C. Boice, who was bound and slapped at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. (Pete) Kaiser, 1955 St. Clair Ave., where she resides.

The robbers forced their way into the home about 6:45 Saturday night, shortly after Mr. and Mrs. Kaiser left for dinner at a Youngstown restaurant, leaving Mrs. Boice alone.

Mrs. Boice apparently came through the ordeal unhurt except for a few bruises, her son-in-law reported. The intruders obtained only some old coins and some money which Mrs. Kaiser had collected for women's organizations, he added.

Shortly after Mr. and Mrs. Kaiser left for Youngstown, the telephone rang and a male voice asked first for Kaiser and then for his wife. Told that both were absent, the man hung up.

About 6:45, there was a knock on the back door. Mrs. Boice, responding, found two well-dressed men standing outside the door. When she opened the door, the two men forced their way in. One carried a gun.

"You're not coming in here," Mrs. Boice told the men.

"Oh, yes we are," one of them replied.

The two men took Mrs. Boice to the den, threw her on the floor and bound her wrists and ankles with adhesive tape. They removed her glasses and then covered her head with her apron to block her vision.

The two questioned her about money and the location of a supposed safe, but she replied that there was no safe in the house and no large quantity of money.

During the questioning, the men slapped Mrs. Boice to induce her to reply and to silence her screams.

Finally satisfied that they would get no information from Mrs. Boice, the two ransacked the house thoroughly in the search for money, finally gathering together the $100 in various places.

After about a half-hour, the men left the way they had come.

About 7:30, Mrs. Neil Shope of Blazer Ln. arrived to visit her mother, as is her custom on Saturday night. She found Mrs. Boice still bound and lying on the floor of the den.

Mrs. Shope telephoned a physician and called police.

Kaiser commented that the men "must have been professionals because they came prepared with adhesive tape." He added that the family never keeps large quantities of money in the house.

He said Mrs. Boice did not hear the two gunmen call each other by name. She said they were neat-appearing "and didn't look like robbers."

Mr. and Mrs. Kaiser returned home from Youngstown about 9. Kaiser is the former proprietor of the Dixie Diner and formerly served on City Council. He now is a real estate salesman.

Thieves also carried off a strongbox containing bonds and assorted documents Friday night or early Saturday from the home of T. K.

Vote Machines Seen 'Mandatory' For Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Secretary of State Ted W. Brown predicted today that mandatory use of mechanical voting equipment is likely in Ohio in the not too-distant future.

The hinge was not introduced until late in the 12th century, and previously to that, and going back to ancient times, doors were hung on pivots fitted into sockets.

Are You Ready For A Cold War?

The word from Moscow is good, according to American comment.

The Communist conspirators have decided not to talk about hot war.

They think it's better to say their official policy is coexistence. This does not rule out a shooting war, but it does rule out the Red Chinese policy of threatening to start one.

The main impact of what has been agreed on in Moscow is going to be made on the United States — on individual Americans.

Nikita Khrushchev once told Americans that communism would bury them, explaining he meant with a shovel, not with a nuclear bomb. This is the same message. There has been no change in Khrushchev's thinking, and his thinking has taken precedence over the thinking of the Commuist Chinese.

THE REACTION here has been one of relief. Hot war is not inevitable. Perhaps the Communists never intend to fight at all. Surely the United States has nothing to be afraid of in international competition.

And surely it's a relief to know the ominous threat of Chinese Communists scurrying into Cuba and Latin America doesn't mean what it could have meant — a beachhead for military invasion of the New World.

But in truth Americans have heard the most ominous news of the 20th century — that the Russians, Chinese and their Communist associates think they can subdue the non-Communist world with propaganda and economics; that state enterprise is more than a match for private enterprise.

Secure in their certainty that the United States and its allies never will attack the Communist strongholds, Communist nations can relax their militarism and concentrate their strength elsewhere.

THEY CAN systematically wage the kind of war the free world is least prepared to wage — a war of nerves that will put the disciplined population of police states against the undisciplined populations of free nations.

They can rabble - rouse Asia, Africa and Latin America into such chaos that the United States and the free nations won't stand a chance. Communism thrives on chaos. Freedom perishes.

They can take shrewd advantage of the worldwide strengthening of nationalist psychology — a drawing together of once disparate groups in quest of security.

They can exploit the admitted inability of capital - colonialism to lift the yoke of poverty from people who have lagged behind in the development of industry.

They can appeal to the discontent generated by every imperfect system. It will be generated by the imperfections of communism whenever its advocates quit preaching and start performing.

They can embarrass profit-dependent business interests in the free nations by forcing them to compete with state-subsidized enterprise — a no-contest absurdity already experienced by the United States in competition with state-subsidized ocean shipping fleets.

MOST OMINOUS of all, they can put their authoritarian police - state discipline against the voluntary cooperation of societies in which government exists to serve the people.

The Communists know one thing of enormous value about the probable American response to this kind of non-shooting warfare. They learned it in the 1960 election.

Americans are fascinated by the thesis that their mission in life is to beat Communists — all Communists, everywhere.

Anything and everything is justifiable if it promises to hurt the Communist Conspiracy.

This could be a fatal weakness.

America's mission is to hold aloft the lamp of freedom. It is to preserve itself as the last best hope of mankind. It is to keep open for exiles the golden door that made America the most envied nation on earth.

It will be tempting for Americans to yield to the negativism of fighting the Communist Conspiracy on the conspiracy's own negative terms, instead of making the conspirators fight the battle for men's minds on America's positive terms — more dignity for individual men, more freedom for all men.

First We Must Argue About It

The chancellor of University of Pittsburgh, Dr. Edward H. Litchfield, reports that 5,000, instead of an expected 3,000 students, signed up for the school's tri-semester schedule when it was put into effect 18 months ago.

He estimates that if all institutions of advanced learning adopted a three-semester schedule it might save as much as $10 billion in college expansion costs over the next 10 years. Students could finish their college training in three years, instead of four. Graduate students could take their master's degrees in one year. Colleges and universities could expand without putting up more buildings.

Students who had to work could "Lay out" for a semester of 100 days a year, instead of the 65-odd days that are the limit under two-semester and four-quarter schedules. Teachers could add to their incomes by performing more work, instead of complaining that they cannot earn enough to make the teaching profession attractive.

Even the psychology of the tighter schedule would be favorable; it would combat the deepening impression that the American goal is to follow industrial workers down the path of less work for more pay. That is only an industrial goal, not a goal for scholars, not a goal for students who learn from scholars.

One factor favoring less time off for college students grows more important year by year. There are fewer and fewer "summer jobs" available to students. As more of them have a choice between idleness in the summer months and going to school for longer periods to minimize idle time, they will choose to go to school.

University of Pittsburgh has gone ahead with something that all schools will be doing eventually. But most of them will have to argue about it a few more years before they will make the decision they will have to make sooner or later.

Things Are Not Tough All Over

The question is whether to be alarmed by the physical "softness" of U.S. boys and girls, as revealed by tests revealing strength. Beyond that, the question is how alarmed to be if there's anything to be alarmed about.

The tests were made by the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation. Comparisons with boys and girls in England, Scotland, Wales and Cyprus make Americans seem to be softies. Comparison with boys and girls in Japan make all the others seem soft. The Japanese are toughest of all.

Speed, endurance, agility, arm power and leg power were tested. Only in ability to throw a ball can American boys demonstrate superiority. That may very well be the key to whether the tests are a cause for alarm.

We suspect that what has been discovered is not physical inferiority but the results of abstaining from certain physical action. The tests reveal more about soft living than they reveal about physical softness.

If American boys and girls walked and rode bicycles more, they would have more leg power, just as they have more throwing ability because they throw balls more than their counterparts in other countries. No one questions the relative absence of both voluntary and involuntary exercise among American youth.

But the physical conditioning of exercise is not in itself evidence of anything. Hordes of human beings live long, healthy lives without exercise. There is evidence they might feel better and look better if they exercised, but there is no evidence that they would be more useful or live longer. This is an affront to exercise bugs, but all they can do is get red-necked about it.

The more important fact is that, thanks to nutrition and medical advances, boys and girls in this country are taller, heavier and healthier than they used to be. If it weren't for automobiles, they'd be candidates for a 20th century super-race. If all of them had to do hard labor to keep their heads above water, the Japanese would be coming here to learn the American secret of hardihood. American kids would be the world's toughies.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

The big problem in the White House will be where to put toys, dolls, rattles and miscellaneous baby things. Mother and Junior will be major attractions after the new President moves in. Baby carriage will absorb attention given for eight years to Ike's golfing cart.

White House and surroundings will be photographers' paradise, as in the days when Teddy Roosevelt's youngsters were daily news features. Question how the President performs in global crisis will be overshadowed by question how he strikes the public as a White House father. To put it in verse:

He now holds the highest office
He's become a man of might,
But how will he meet his duty
When he walks the babe by night?

II

Jack is smart and most resourceful—
He has brains and class and style,
But how will he meet the challenge,
"Hold the baby for a while"?

III

He has won acclaim for wisdom
And for answers swift and true;
Here's the test: when baby hiccoughs
Will he know just what to do?

When a new postmaster general takes over in Washington there will probably be some slowdown in the policy of turning out a new postage stamp every hour on the hour.

Jack Kennedy seems to have taken up golf. But he is not endorsing the idea that what's good for Sam Snead is good for the U.S. governmental policies. President-elect is not a golf enthusiast, however. He can take a niblick or leave it alone. His book "Profiles in Courage" made no mention of the Hagens, Sarazens or Hogans. He is a fast player, and sticks to the "we must go forward" idea even in sand traps.

It seems to us that American civilization has reached the height of softness when people don't want to get out of their autos to put money in the bank and wear expressions of impatience at the special windows.

Man has patented a single gold club the head of which, by a twist of a monkey wrench, can make it serve as everything from a driver to a putting iron. You just turn a nut on the shaft.

Our bet is that if it becomes popular, golfers will find they must take lessons in how to get the best score through a wrench. They will hear the explanation "You're pressing with that wrench and standing too close to the nut." Over the fields will come golfer's pathetic wail, "It must be I ain't got the right wrench for this hole."

If The Shoe Fits . . .

A Story Behind Hoffa Indictment

By Victor Riesel

Here is the little known story behind the scenes of Jim Hoffa's indictment.

According to government records, Jimmy Hoffa is his own bag-man. Being a man of the people despite his $1,000 - a - week salary, he spurned the traditional little black satchel and the little tin box. He used a brown paper bag when he picked up $25,000 in cash from a friend and business colleague named Henry Lower, now also a co-indictee, if I can coin a word.

Victor Riesel

Jim Hoffa told the federals that this petty cash was a loan, albeit he signed no formal note. His word is as good as his bond, they say in some circles. So, let's leave the little brown bag for a moment. Instead, let's look at friend Lower.

What is the background of this man who has been charged with joining Hoffa in misusing more than half a million dollars in Teamsters local funds — the dues payers' money.

THIS MAN, who made $25,000 in cash available to Hoffa, first showed up in Detroit teamsters circles as a fugitive from the law. He had run from a California road gang. This may not have been the character reference he needed but at least the escape was not taken as a personal insult by some influential Detroit teamsters officials (guess who?)

Lower soon became a business agent for Local 376, Automobile Drivers and Demonstrators. What he demonstrated was a facile ability to get into quick rich schemes. It was he who launched the Sun Valley retirement home project near Orlando, Fla.

This apparently did not absorb all his time. He managed to get himself picked up in two states on charges of the illegal possession of narcotics.

After Lower got Hoffa to shift half a million dollars of union funds from Detroit to an interest-free account in a Florida bank, the boys contacted their friends, cut them in, and a good thing it was for them.

They paid about $18 a lot. Soon they were selling the bits of ground to hard working teamsters with one dream — to get out of the cab some day and idle in the sun. For this teamsters and stenographers and even a bootblack began paying $150 a plot.

THE MEN of toil could manage this out of tight budgets because the original payment called for $50 down and $10 a month. Soon the dreamers flocked in. To the cynics they were suckers.

Bids hoisted the price. Lots swiftly jumped to $450 to $550 apiece. Then that lover of the people, Henry Lower, began pressuring the original lots back so he could resell them at the higher price.

What the working teamsters, with confidence in their leader, didn't know was that the model homes gayly pictured by the salesmen had to go for $15,000 and more. This would be above the ability of pensioned workers to pay.

Furthermore, Lower didn't tell them that they would have to pay heavy extra assessments for sewers and other community development.

Even after full payments had been made by the enthusiastic members, they could not get clear title because the project itself was in debt. Not the least reason for this debt was Lower's estimate of his own services in pursuit of the big dream.

HE GOT some $135,000 out of the original Sun Valley financing. About $84,000 of this went into other Lower projects. These ventures included a fling at ice cream driveins and a special development of his own.

During this time he drew approximately $90,000 in salary and expenses from the teamsters while promoting the land scheme in Florida, his personal tycoonery and raising the $25,000 for the brown bag.

These are just the highlights of a complex saga of the mulcting of humble people. It was Sen. McClellan, while asking Lower to explain all this, who summed up a broken dream of many a teamster:

"Do you know," McClellan asked, "how many union members, people who actually work, sweat and toil, and pay their dues, how many you were able to induce to buy property, to buy lots, down there in that undeveloped area, can you tell us how many?"

Lower was barely audible. An answer, he said, would tend to incriminate him.

They'll Never Know

By Truman Twill

They call it "occupational therapy."

The idea is to get the patient's mind off his troubles by giving him something to do with his hands.

I was the patient.

It was a heal-thyself situation. I was sick of reading about the state of the world, which is bad. I couldn't stand to look at television, which is worse. And the thought of spending an evening doing nothing was worst of all.

So I built a bird-feeder. It took two and a-half hours, including time for contemplation. There was no plan for the bird-feeder. It grew.

There were no materials, either. They were improvised.

The feeding platform was the lid of an old pressure cooker.

The feed container was a plastic jar that cottage cheese had been sold in once.

The roof was the uneven remnant of what once had been the aluminum cover of a power lawnmower.

The pole on which it was to be held aloft was a mast for a flag—a woodenpole that had come into my possession in a roundabout way after years of service on holidays, when it displayed an American flag in the front yard of a house in a city miles away.

This pole was to be seated in a section of steel pipe that once had been in the well that furnishes water at the Twillery.

This was a Vermont project — a challenge to make something out of something else — an object lesson in the art of "make-do."

Also embodied in it were bolts, nails and much electric drilling to make enough holes in the plastic jar to let the bird feed run out.

The contraption was rigid. It was functional. It worked. It would withstand weather. And it was the focus of a sense of pride. Ingenuity had won out.

A needed object had been provided. It would not be necessary to lay out capital for a bird-feeder. The head man had made one.

The lady I room with was first to take note of it in the basement. "I see Rube Goldberg has been with us," she said brightly. "What did he do this time?"

She said she couldn't guess. The thing was turned around while she looked at the holes in the plastic container, the roof over everything, the bracing that would make everything rigid.

"I give up," she kept repeating. "What is it?"

The other lady in the establishment was waiting when the designer and manufacturer came home from work the next day.

"What parade are you getting ready to march in?" she inquired, archly.

"Parade?" said designer and manufacturer.

"That thing in the basement," she explained. "When I was a little girl in St. Louis, they had political parades and the men carried things like that. They were torches, like. They made a light, like. Does that thing light up?"

"You really don't know what it is?" asked the designer and manufacturer incredulously. "You're not fooling? You really think I worked my fingers to the bone making a torch to march in a parade with?"

"Yeah," she said. As far as I'm concerned, they'll never know — neither of them. The birds will know. They'll see the bird feed. I've made a sign to put on it—Bird Feeder.

U.N. Weaknesses

By John M. Hightower

Congo Crisis Shows 2 Serious Problems

WASHINGTON

The Congo crisis has uncovered two dangerous weaknesses in the United Nations. If not corrected soon, they can render the world organization powerless to deal with this crisis or any other.

One weakness is financial. The other is a matter of prestige. Both arise out of the efforts of the United Nations to restore order in the turbulent, former Belgian territory.

Officials in Washington are not sure which situation offers the most serious threat. They are deeply worried about both, because the United States is relying on the United Nations to serve as a major instrument of its aims in Africa. These aims in general are to promote the growth of African states as independent nations, not subject to control from either Western capitals or Moscow.

If these purposes cannot be realized through the United Nations, American leaders fear what may happen. They believe that not only the Congo but also other African lands would become involved in a fierce, gloves-off struggle between the Western powers and the Sino-Soviet bloc. This may happen anyway, in spite of the best U. N. efforts.

The present grave dangers in the Congo situation are these:

1. The cost of the United Nations operations there to date total about $65 million. The only way Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold can get the money is from member nations, either by assessments voted by them or by some other system of contribution.

The process is essentially a voluntary one. The problem of raising the $65 million and of providing for still higher 1961 costs has been under discussion, formally and informally, for weeks. Many differences have developed among U. N. members. Even if they finally agree on a formula it may not be adequate to meet the needs for funds.

2. The first responsibility of the United Nations in the Congo has been to restore and maintain order. Its effectiveness there is dependent on physical force. Its troops are drawn from more than two dozen member nations.

Four of the nations which contributed to the force—the United Arab Republic, Ceylon, Yugoslavia, and Indonesia—have stated their intentions to withdraw their contingents, a total of 1,699 men. Ghana was reported to be considering the withdrawal of its 1,185 men. Such withdrawals, though numerically small, would constitute a serious blow to U. N. prestige.

The troop problem and to a large degree the financial problem arise out of the worldwide split between the Western powers and the Sino-Soviet bloc. They are also influenced by the bold enmities and passions clustered around the issue of Western colonialism.

Without funds the United Nations cannot carry out its Congo mission much longer. Neither can it do so without sufficient troops. The choice facing many U. N. members is whether their immediate individual goals are more important to them than is their long-range general interest in maintaining the United Nations as a going concern.

LBJ Heartens NATO

By Bernard Kaplan

PARIS

Western Europe's initial encounter with a representative of the incoming American administration, Vice President-elect Lyndon Johnson, has left the impression among diplomats that they will be able to do business with President John F. Kennedy.

Virtually unknown until he arrived in Paris—ostensibly to attend a conference of NATO parliamentarians—Johnson injected the first note of genuine optimism for many months in West European political circles regarding American leadership.

It could not have come at a better time since the coinciding mission of a member of the outgoing Eisenhower administration, Treasury Secretary Robert Anderson, spread gloom in Bonn, Paris and London.

Johnson, exuding confidence, told allied officials in Paris and in London that Kennedy's first goal in international affairs will be to strengthen and expand the scope of the Atlantic Alliance.

More significantly, however, from the viewpoint of Gen. de Gaulle and Prime Minister Macmillan, he added that the new American administration does not intend to "dominate" the alliance.

ONE ALLIED OFFICIAL who sat in on discussions with the Texas senator reported, "He talked like a man who realized that while Europe wants American leadership, it doesn't want to be led by the nose. He emphasized 'partnership' and I got the impression he was carefully relaying Kennedy's thoughts since he himself frankly did not profess to be an expert on international affairs."

Johnson indicated that President Kennedy will support providing NATO with independent nuclear armament, even though both men, as veteran members of the U.S. Senate, are acutely conscious of the legislative hurdles facing such a move.

American official sources in Paris said this was the reason why NATO Secretary-General Paul-Henri Spaak could not get a concrete pledge on this matter from Kennedy spokesmen with whom he conferred previously in Washington.

As part of Kennedy's plan to "upgrade" NATO and stress the partnership angle, Johnson hinted that a major "name" would be appointed to the presently obscure and lacklustre NATO permanent council in Paris.

He is understood to have mentioned no names but his comments quickly stirred rosy speculation among European diplomats that the nominee might be former secretary of state, Dean Acheson or even Adlai Stevenson.

While Johnson was presenting the new administration's face to Western Europe, Anderson's mission was stirring fresh doubts about America's capacity to lead.

The immediate problem of the U.S. government's hunt for financial assistance aside, Allied authorities fear that a continuing gold crisis, combined with the distinct possibility of a major recession, may turn America inward.

Europeans are especially concerned at the prospect of the "Buy American" theme, already strongly evident in President Eisenhower's set of directives designed to reduce the outflow of gold, turning into a movement to erect higher trade barriers against continental goods.

JOHNSON'S confident predictions that the economic difficulties would be licked, were particularly welcomed, coming from a member of the next government. His confidence shone the brighter since he made no effort to hide the seriousness of the problem. He thinks it is very serious indeed.

Johnson's attitude helped offset the shock value of Anderson's somber analysis.

The view of the influential French newspaper Le Monde that the "dollar crisis" has become a political problem as well as an economic one is shared by many European authorities.

They are inclined to believe the crisis is already producing certain changes in the international climate whose full impact will first become apparent after President Kennedy takes over.

The first of these is that West Germany's rebuff of the Anderson mission and tremendous publicity it received is likely to mark a further decline in Adenauer's once heavy influence in Washington. Reliance on Germany as an Allied partner could drop.

ON THE OTHER HAND, Gen. de Gaulle's prognosis of an American troop withdrawal from Europe is the not-too-distant future is now taken a lot more seriously than it was when originally made. Anderson himself mentioned it. Even though Johnson emphasized that the new administration does not contemplate any move of that kind, President Kennedy will have to face the fact that possible American withdrawal will henceforth be a considerable factor in the decisions taken by America's allies.

It adds to the already ample area of military and political disagreement within NATO. De Gaulle reasons that national armaments must be bolstered to meet the eventuality of American withdrawal.

Others argue that it makes an integrated NATO force, with or without nuclear weapons, more urgent than ever.

Diplomats also are conjecturing whether it may become a factor in decisions taken by Premier Khrushchev. They are asking whether he will precipitate a crisis over West Berlin or, in expectation of further stresses and strains within the Western Alliance, allow the situation to continue simmering for many months.

Are You Ready For A Cold War?

The word from Moscow is good, according to American comment.

The Communist conspirators have decided not to talk about hot war.

They think it's better to say their official policy is coexistence. This does not rule out a shooting war, but it does rule out the Red Chinese policy of threatening to start one.

The main impact of what has been agreed on in Moscow is going to be made on the United States — on individual Americans.

Nikita Khrushchev once told Americans that communism would bury them, explaining he meant with a shovel, not with a nuclear bomb. This is the same message. There has been no change in Khrushchev's thinking, and his thinking has taken precedence over the thinking of the Commuist Chinese.

THE REACTION here has been one of relief. Hot war is not inevitable. Perhaps the Communists never intend to fight at all. Surely the United States has nothing to be afraid of in international competition.

And surely it's a relief to know the ominous threat of Chinese Communists scurrying into Cuba and Latin America doesn't mean what it could have meant — a beachhead for military invasion of the New World.

But in truth Americans have heard the most ominous news of the 20th century — that the Russians, Chinese and their Communist associates think they can subdue the non-Communist world with propaganda and economics; that state enterprise is more than a match for private enterprise.

Secure in their certainty that the United States and its allies never will attack the Communist strongholds, Communist nations can relax their militarism and concentrate their strength elsewhere.

THEY CAN systematically wage the kind of war the free world is least prepared to wage — a war of nerves that will put the disciplined population of police states against the undisciplined populations of free nations.

They can rabble - rouse Asia, Africa and Latin America into such chaos that the United States and the free nations won't stand a chance. Communism thrives on chaos. Freedom perishes.

They can take shrewd advantage of the worldwide strengthening of nationalist psychology — a drawing together of once disparate groups in quest of security.

They can exploit the admitted inability of capital - colonialism to lift the yoke of poverty from people who have lagged behind in the development of industry.

They can appeal to the discontent generated by every imperfect system. It will be generated by the imperfections of communism whenever its advocates quit preaching and start performing.

They can embarrass profit-dependent business interests in the free nations by forcing them to compete with state-subsidized enterprise — a no-contest absurdity already experienced by the United States in competition with state-subsidized ocean shipping fleets.

MOST OMINOUS of all, they can put their authoritarian police - state discipline against the voluntary cooperation of societies in which government exists to serve the people.

The Communists know one thing of enormous value about the probable American response to this kind of non-shooting warfare. They learned it in the 1960 election.

Americans are fascinated by the thesis that their mission in life is to beat Communists — all Communists, everywhere.

Anything and everything is justifiable if it promises to hurt the Communist Conspiracy.

This could be a fatal weakness.

America's mission is to hold aloft the lamp of freedom. It is to preserve itself as the last best hope of mankind. It is to keep open for exiles the golden door that made America the most envied nation on earth.

It will be tempting for Americans to yield to the negativism of fighting the Communist Conspiracy on the conspiracy's own negative terms, instead of making the conspirators fight the battle for men's minds on America's positive terms — more dignity for individual men, more freedom for all men.

First We Must Argue About It

The chancellor of University of Pittsburgh, Dr. Edward H. Litchfield, reports that 5,000, instead of an expected 3,000 students, signed up for the school's tri-semester schedule when it was put into effect 18 months ago.

He estimates that if all institutions of advanced learning adopted a three-semester schedule it might save as much as $10 billion in college expansion costs over the next 10 years. Students could finish their college training in three years, instead of four. Graduate students could take their master's degrees in one year. Colleges and universities could expand without putting up more buildings.

Students who had to work could "Lay out" for a semester of 100 days a year, instead of the 65-odd days that are the limit under two-semester and four-quarter schedules. Teachers could add to their incomes by performing more work, instead of complaining that they cannot earn enough to make the teaching profession attractive.

Even the psychology of the tighter schedule would be favorable; it would combat the deepening impression that the American goal is to follow industrial workers down the path of less work for more pay. That is only an industrial goal, not a goal for scholars, not a goal for students who learn from scholars.

One factor favoring less time off for college students grows more important year by year. There are fewer and fewer "summer jobs" available to students. As more of them have a choice between idleness in the summer months and going to school for longer periods to minimize idle time, they will choose to go to school.

University of Pittsburgh has gone ahead with something that all schools will be doing eventually. But most of them will have to argue about it a few more years before they will make the decision they will have to make sooner or later.

Things Are Not Tough All Over

The question is whether to be alarmed by the physical "softness" of U.S. boys and girls, as revealed by tests revealing strength. Beyond that, the question is how alarmed to be if there's anything to be alarmed about.

The tests were made by the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation. Comparisons with boys and girls in England, Scotland, Wales and Cyprus make Americans seem to be softies. Comparison with boys and girls in Japan make all the others seem soft. The Japanese are toughest of all.

Speed, endurance, agility, arm power and leg power were tested. Only in ability to throw a ball can American boys demonstrate superiority. That may very well be the key to whether the tests are a cause for alarm.

We suspect that what has been discovered is not physical inferiority but the results of abstaining from certain physical action. The tests reveal more about soft living than they reveal about physical softness.

If American boys and girls walked and rode bicycles more, they would have more leg power, just as they have more throwing ability because they throw balls more than their counterparts in other countries. No one questions the relative absence of both voluntary and involuntary exercise among American youth.

But the physical conditioning of exercise is not in itself evidence of anything. Hordes of human beings live long, healthy lives without exercise. There is evidence they might feel better and look better if they exercised, but there is no evidence that they would be more useful or live longer. This is an affront to exercise bugs, but all they can do is get red-necked about it.

The more important fact is that, thanks to nutrition and medical advances, boys and girls in this country are taller, heavier and healthier than they used to be. If it weren't for automobiles, they'd be candidates for a 20th century super-race. If all of them had to do hard labor to keep their heads above water, the Japanese would be coming here to learn the American secret of hardihood. American kids would be the world's toughies.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

The big problem in the White House will be where to put toys, dolls, rattles and miscellaneous baby things. Mother and Junior will be major attractions after the new President moves in. Baby carriage will absorb attention given for eight years to Ike's golfing cart.

White House and surroundings will be photographers' paradise, as in the days when Teddy Roosevelt's youngsters were daily news features. Question how the President performs in global crisis will be overshadowed by question how he strikes the public as a White House father. To put it in verse:

He now holds the highest office
He's become a man of might,
But how will he meet his duty
When he walks the babe by night?

II

Jack is smart and most resourceful—
He has brains and class and style,
But how will he meet the challenge,
"Hold the baby for a while"?

III

He has won acclaim for wisdom
And for answers swift and true;
Here's the test: when baby hiccoughs
Will he know just what to do?

When a new postmaster general takes over in Washington there will probably be some slowdown in the policy of turning out a new postage stamp every hour on the hour.

Jack Kennedy seems to have taken up golf. But he is not endorsing the idea that what's good for Sam Snead is good for the U.S. governmental policies. President-elect is not a golf enthusiast, however. He can take a niblick or leave it alone. His book "Profiles in Courage" made no mention of the Hagens, Sarazens or Hogans. He is a fast player, and sticks to the "we must go forward" idea even in sand traps.

It seems to us that American civilization has reached the height of softness when people don't want to get out of their autos to put money in the bank and wear expressions of impatience at the special windows.

Man has patented a single gold club the head of which, by a twist of a monkey wrench, can make it serve as everything from a driver to a putting iron. You just turn a nut on the shaft.

Our bet is that if it becomes popular, golfers will find they must take lessons in how to get the best score through a wrench. They will hear the explanation "You're pressing with that wrench and standing too close to the nut." Over the fields will come golfer's pathetic wail, "It must be I ain't got the right wrench for this hole."

If The Shoe Fits . . .

A Story Behind Hoffa Indictment

By Victor Riesel

Here is the little known story behind the scenes of Jim Hoffa's indictment.

According to government records, Jimmy Hoffa is his own bag-man. Being a man of the people despite his $1,000 - a - week salary, he spurned the traditional little black satchel and the little tin box.

Victor Riesel

He used a brown paper bag when he picked up $25,000 in cash from a friend and business colleague named Henry Lower, now also a co-indictee, if I can coin a word.

Jim Hoffa told the federals that this petty cash was a loan, albeit he signed no formal note. His word is as good as his bond, they say in some circles. So, let's leave the little brown bag for a moment. Instead, let's look at friend Lower.

What is the background of this man who has been charged with joining Hoffa in misusing more than half a million dollars in Teamsters local funds — the dues payers' money.

THIS MAN, who made $25,000 in cash available to Hoffa, first showed up in Detroit teamsters circles as a fugitive from the law. He had run from a California road gang. This may not have been the character reference he needed but at least the escape was not taken as a personal insult by some influential Detroit teamsters officials (guess who?)

Lower soon became a business agent for Local 376, Automobile Drivers and Demonstrators. What he demonstrated was a facile ability to get into quick rich schemes. It was he who launched the Sun Valley retirement home project near Orlando, Fla.

This apparently did not absorb all his time. He managed to get himself picked up in two states on charges of the illegal possession of narcotics.

After Lower got Hoffa to shift half a million dollars of union funds from Detroit to an interest-free account in a Florida bank, the boys contacted their friends, cut them in, and a good thing it was for them.

They paid about $16 a lot. Soon they were selling the bits of ground to hard working teamsters with one dream — to get out of the cab some day and idle in the sun. For this teamsters and stenographers and even a bootblack began paying $150 a plot.

THE MEN of toil could manage this out of tight budgets because the original payment called for $50 down and $10 a month. Soon the dreamers flocked in. To the cynics they were suckers.

Bids hoisted the price. Lots swiftly jumped to $450 to $550 apiece. Then that lover of the people, Henry Lower, began pressuring the original lots back so he could resell them at the higher price.

What the working teamsters, with confidence in their leader, didn't know was that the model homes gayly pictured by the salesmen had to go for $15,000 and more. This would be above the ability of pensioned workers to pay.

Furthermore, Lower didn't tell them that they would have to pay heavy extra assessments for sewers and other community development.

Even after full payments had been made by the enthusiastic members, they could not get clear title because the project itself was in debt. Not the least reason for this debt was Lower's estimate of his own services in pursuit of the big dream.

HE GOT some $135,000 out of the original Sun Valley financing. About $84,000 of this went into other Lower projects. These ventures included a fling at ice cream driveins and a special development of his own.

During this time he drew approximately $90,000 in salary and expenses from the teamsters while promoting the land scheme in Florida, his personal tycoonery and raising the $25,000 for the brown bag.

These are just the highlights of a complex saga of the mulcting of humble people. It was Sen. McClellan, while asking Lower to explain all this, who summed up a broken dream of many a teamster:

"Do you know," McClellan asked, "how many union members, people who actually work, sweat and toil, and pay their dues, how many you were able to induce to buy property, to buy lots, down there in that undeveloped area, can you tell us how many?"

Lower was barely audible. An answer, he said, would tend to incriminate him.

They'll Never Know

By Truman Twill

They call it "occupational therapy."

The idea is to get the patient's mind off his troubles by giving him something to do with his hands.

I was the patient.

It was a heal-thyself situation. I was sick of reading about the state of the world, which is bad. I couldn't stand to look at television, which is worse. And the thought of spending an evening doing nothing was worst of all.

So I built a bird-feeder. It took two and a-half hours, including time for contemplation. There was no plan for the bird-feeder. It grew.

There were no materials, either. They were improvised.

The feeding platform was the lid of an old pressure cooker.

The feed container was a plastic jar that cottage cheese had been sold in once.

The roof was the uneven remnant of what once had been the aluminum cover of a power lawnmower.

The pole on which it was to be held aloft was a mast for a flag—a woodenpole that had come into my possession in a roundabout way after years of service on holidays, when it displayed an American flag in the front yard of a house in a city miles away.

This pole was to be seated in a section of steel pipe that once had been in the well that furnishes water at the Twillery.

This was a Vermont project — a challenge to make something out of something else — an object lesson in the art of "make-do."

Also embodied in it were bolts, nails and much electric drilling to make enough holes in the plastic jar to let the bird feed run out.

The contraption was rigid. It was functional. It worked. It would withstand weather. And it was the focus of a sense of pride. Ingenuity had won out.

A needed object had been provided. It would not be necessary to lay out capital for a bird-feeder. The head man had made one.

The lady I room with was first to take note of it in the basement. "I see Rube Goldberg has been with us," she said brightly. "What did he do this time?"

She said she couldn't guess. The thing was turned around while she looked at the holes in the plastic container, the roof over everything, the bracing that would make everything rigid.

"I give up," she kept repeating. "What is it?"

The other lady in the establishment was waiting when the designer and manufacturer came home from work the next day.

"What parade are you getting ready to march in?" she inquired, archly.

"Parade?" said designer and manufacturer.

"That thing in the basement," she explained. "When I was a little girl in St. Louis, they had political parades and the men carried things like that. They were torches, like. They made a light, like. Does that thing light up?"

"You really don't know what it is?" asked the designer and manufacturer incredulously. "You're not fooling? You really think I worked my fingers to the bone making a torch to march in a parade with?"

"Yeah," she said. As far as I'm concerned, they'll never know — neither of them. The birds will know. They'll see the bird feed. I've made a sign to put on it—Bird Feeder.

U.N. Weaknesses

Congo Crisis Shows 2 Serious Problems

WASHINGTON

The Congo crisis has uncovered two dangerous weaknesses in the United Nations. If not corrected soon, they can render the world organization powerless to deal with this crisis or any other.

One weakness is financial. The other is a matter of prestige. Both arise out of the efforts of the United Nations to restore order in the turbulent, former Belgian territory.

Officials in Washington are not sure which situation offers the most serious threat. They are deeply worried about both, because the United States is relying on the United Nations to serve as a major instrument of its aims in Africa. These aims in general are to promote the growth of African states as independent nations, not subject to control from either Western capitals or Moscow.

If these purposes cannot be realized through the United Nations, American leaders fear what may happen. They believe that not only the Congo but also other African lands would become involved in a fierce, gloves-off struggle between the Western powers and the Sino-Soviet bloc. This may happen anyway, in spite of the best U. N. efforts.

The present grave dangers in the Congo situation are these:

1. The cost of the United Nations operations there to date total about $65 million. The only way Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold can get the money is from member nations, either by assessments voted by them or by some other system of contribution.

The process is essentially a voluntary one. The problem of raising the $65 million and of providing for still higher 1961 costs has been under discussion, formally and informally, for weeks. Many differences have developed among U. N. members. Even if they finally agree on a formula it may not be adequate to meet the needs for funds.

2. The first responsibility of the United Nations in the Congo has been to restore and maintain order. Its effectiveness there is dependent on physical force. Its troops are drawn from more than two dozen member nations.

Four of the nations which contributed to the force—the United Arab Republic, Ceylon, Yugoslavia, and Indonesia—have stated their intentions to withdraw their contingents, a total of 1,699 men. Ghana was reported to be considering the withdrawal of its 1,183 men. Such withdrawals, though numerically small, would constitute a serious blow to U. N. prestige.

The troop problem and to a large degree the financial problem arise out of the worldwide split between the Western powers and the Sino-Soviet bloc. They are also influenced by the bold enmities and passions clustered around the issue of Western colonialism.

Without funds the United Nations cannot carry out its Congo mission much longer. Neither can it do so without sufficient troops. The choice facing many U. N. members is whether their immediate individual goals are more important to them than is their long-range general interest in maintaining the United Nations as a going concern.

LBJ Heartens NATO

By Bernard Kaplan

PARIS

Western Europe's initial encounter with a representative of the incoming American administration, Vice President-elect Lyndon Johnson, has left the impression among diplomats that they will be able to do business with President John F. Kennedy.

Virtually unknown until he arrived in Paris—ostensibly to attend a conference of NATO parliamentarians—Johnson injected the first note of genuine optimism for many months in West European political circles regarding American leadership.

It could not have come at a better time since the coinciding mission of a member of the outgoing Eisenhower administration, Treasury Secretary Robert Anderson, spread gloom in Bonn, Paris and London.

Johnson, exuding confidence, told allied officials in Paris and in London that Kennedy's first goal in international affairs will be to strengthen and expand the scope of the Atlantic Alliance.

More significantly, however, from the viewpoint of Gen. de Gaulle and Prime Minister Macmillan, he added that the new American administration does not intend to "dominate" the alliance.

ONE ALLIED OFFICIAL who sat in on discussions with the Texas senator reported, "He talked like a man who realized that while Europe wants American leadership, it doesn't want to be led by the nose. He emphasized 'partnership' and I got the impression he was carefully relaying Kennedy's thoughts since he himself frankly did not profess to be an expert on international affairs."

Johnson indicated that President Kennedy will support providing NATO with independent nuclear armament, even though both men, as veteran members of the U.S. Senate, are acutely conscious of the legislative hurdles facing such a move.

American official sources in Paris said this was the reason why NATO Secretary-General Paul-Henri Spaak could not get a concrete pledge on this matter from Kennedy spokesmen with whom he conferred previously in Washington.

Atomic Plant In Shippingport To Observe 3rd Anniversary

Sunday at 12:39 a.m. will mark the third anniversary of the world's first full-scale nuclear power plant at Shippingport.

A switch was thrown on Dec. 18, 1957, that put the plant into operation.

The tiny Beaver County hamlet has been visited by an estimated 42,000 persons since work on the plant began in 1954. VIP's from every nation, including Mr. Khrushchev, have regarded Shippingport among "the places to visit" in the United States.

During its three years of operation, the plant has produced more than 617 million kilowatt hours of electricity, enough to fill the needs of a city of 250,000 homes, 24 hours a day for 14 months.

Its creators and maintainers, Westinghouse Electric Corp., Duquesne Light Co. and the Atomic Energy Commission, report that the plant has posed no serious problems since it actually began producing electricity.

About the only major overhaul that has taken place in the three years of operation has been the replacement of the original atomic reactor core with a newer and more efficient supply of uranium fuel. The atomic fuel supply will be renewed again next year or the year after.

Electricity is created because the constant breakdown or splitting of Uranium atoms creates heat, which in turn boils water, whose steam powers electric generators.

The cost of "atomic" heat is still more than the cost of coal gas and oil energy. But gradually atomic power is expected to be competing in price with them.

There are now 13 atomic reactors supplying useful power in the United States, with 19 others being built, and many more planned. The Shippingport plant has a 60,000-kilowatt capacity and a new core is expected to boost its capacity to 150,000 kilowatts.

A commercial plant scheduled for the New York area next year is designed to produce 275,000 kilowatts, and there is a plant in Illinois operating today at 180,000 kilowatts capacity.

All in all, commercial atomic power, pioneered at Shippingport, is beginning to fulfill the promise everyone holds for it.

Atomic Plant In Shippingport To Observe 3rd Anniversary

Sunday at 12:39 a.m. will mark the third anniversary of the world's first full-scale nuclear power plant at Shippingport.

A switch was thrown on Dec. 18, 1957, that put the plant into operation.

The tiny Beaver County hamlet has been visited by an estimated 42,000 persons since work on the plant began in 1954. VIP's from every nation, including Mr. Khrushchev, have regarded Shippingport among "the places to visit" in the United States.

During its three years of operation, the plant has produced more than 617 million kilowatt hours of electricity, enough to fill the needs of a city of 250,000 homes, 24 hours a day for 14 months.

Its creators and maintainers, Westinghouse Electric Corp., Duquesne Light Co. and the Atomic Energy Commission, report that the plant has posed no serious problems since it actually began producing electricity.

About the only major overhaul that has taken place in the three years of operation has been the replacement of the original atomic reactor core with a newer and more efficient supply of uranium fuel. The atomic fuel supply will be renewed again next year or the year after.

Electricity is created because the constant breakdown or splitting of Uranium atoms creates heat, which in turn boils water, whose steam powers electric generators.

The cost of "atomic" heat is still more than the cost of coal gas and oil energy. But gradually atomic power is expected to be competing in price with them.

There are now 13 atomic reactors supplying useful power in the United States, with 19 others being built, and many more planned. The Shippingport plant has a 60,000-kilowatt capacity and a new core is expected to boost its capacity to 150,000 kilowatts.

A commercial plant scheduled for the New York area next year is designed to produce 275,000 kilowatts, and there is a plant in Illinois operating today at 180,000 kilowatts capacity.

All in all, commercial atomic power, pioneered at Shippingport, is beginning to fulfill the promise everyone holds for it.

She was driving south when she lost control on the slippery pavement and overturned, suffering contusions of the chest and possible rib fractures. She was taken to Salem Central Clinic for treatment.

Drivers from Columbiana and Leetonia were involved in another accident Sunday at 1:15 p. m. about two miles west of Columbiana on Route 344.

Walter W. Messersmith, 66, of 529 S. Main St., Columbiana, was driving west when he went left of center and struck Patsy J. Costanzo, 42, of Leetonia R.D. 1.

Messersmith was treated at Salem City Hospital for lacerations of the head and a possible neck injury. He was cited on a charge of reckless operation, the patrol said. The Leetonia area woman was uninjured.

William L. Clark, 19, of 441 E. Clark St., East Palestine, also escaped injury when his auto slid into a ditch Sunday at 4 p. m. near Williamsport.

Firemen Quell Chester Blaze

Some 17 Chester volunteer firemen fought a fire for two hours early this morning in the Krosney Building on Carolina Ave., next to the Home of American Legion Post 121.

Moderate damage was reported. Firemen were called at 3:05 a. m. by occupants of a first floor apartment and were on the scene until 7 a. m.

Fire Chief William Glover was in charge. Clarence Lennens, firemen's secretary, said there was no evidence of an explosion, although one was reported.

The cause has not been determined, he said. The fire is believed to have started in the partition of the first floor stairway, causing most damage to the second floor.

The building has two unoccupied storerooms in front and one apartment in the rear on the first floor and another apartment on the second floor. Firemen, using masks, broke two doors to check the second floor and make sure no one was asleep.

Most of the damage was caused by water and smoke, Lennens said.

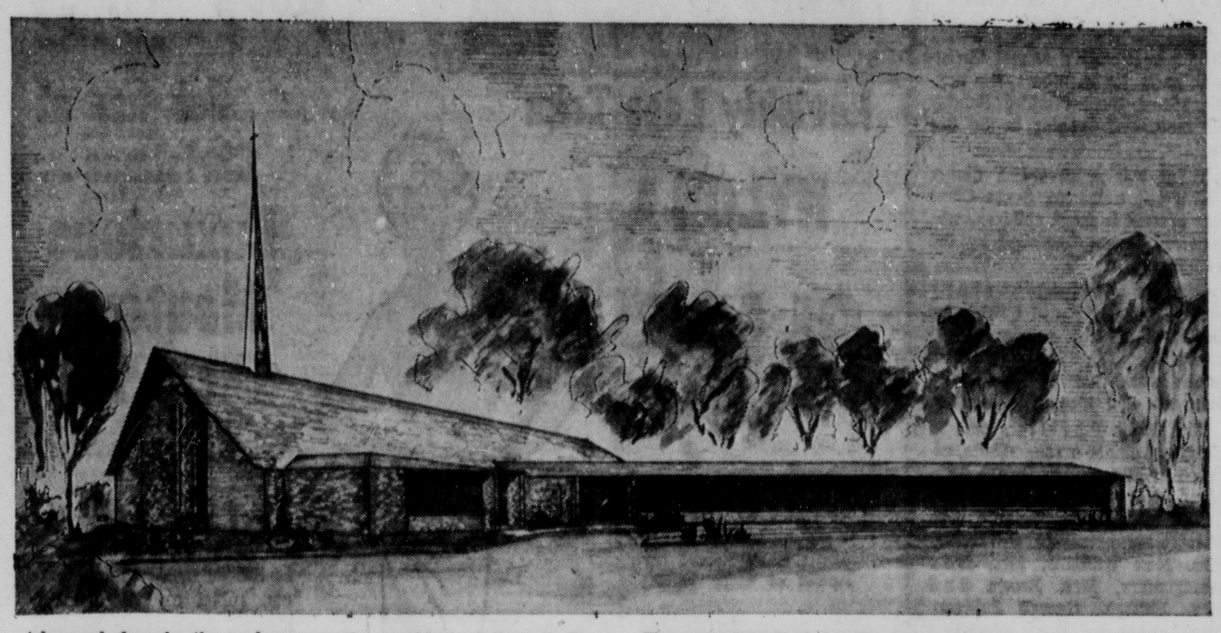
Modern Structure Planned

Free Methodists Approve New Church Plans



Advanced plans for the modern church shown in this architect's sketch were presented to the congregation of the Oakland Free Methodist Church at a banquet Saturday night in the Beaver Local School.

The structure, which will be erected at Etruria St. and Wedgewood Ave., will be Y-shaped with a seating capacity of about 400.

The site is about three blocks from the present church on Holliday St.

The view shows the main entrance and steeple towering over the sanctuary with one wing to the right. The other wing will be at the rear.

The sanctuary, which will face the corner of Wedgewood and Etruria, will extend back to the two educational wings.

The larger wing will extend toward Etruria. The new structure will also have a church office and pastor's study.

Planning for the new building was started about two years ago when the Rev. C. H. Cannon, now of Weirton, was pastor.

The committee includes Frank Seevers, James Rutter, Paul Ward, Joseph Cowsert, Harold Kelly and James Heldreth. The Rev. S. H. Estel, present pastor, replaced Rev. Cannon on the committee.

James Heldreth was master of ceremonies. He introduced the Rev. Howard Artz of Spring Arbor, Mich., Sunday School field representative from the Free Methodist headquarters, as guest speaker.

Other guests included Chief of Police and Mrs. Americo Radeschi and daughters; Charles Edwards, president of Council; Rotrance and steeple towering over the sanctuary with one wing to the right. The other wing will be at the rear.

The welcome address was given by the Rev. S. H. Estel, pastor. Music was presented by a quartet from the First Church of the Nazarene.

Dinner was served to about 125 by the Booster Club of the school.

Membership Pins Presented At Chester Girl Scout Meeting

Membership pins were awarded at a meeting of Senior Girl Scout Troop 79 Thursday in the social rooms of the Chester Westminister United Presbyterian Church.

Miss Seeley joined scouting as a Brownie in 1950 under the leadership of Mrs. Rachel Stewart Allison and Mrs. Thelma Wells West at the Chester Presbyterian Church. In December of the next year, she transferred to the newly-organized Brownie Troop 9 at the Christian Church with her mother and Mrs. Don Anderson and Mrs. Howard McCullough as leaders.

She belonged to Intermediate Troop 51 at the same church with little change in leadership. As a member of Senior Troop 79, she has been active in community and council activities.

Seeley screened a film, "A Mile High — A World Wide," the official film of the 1959 Round-Up. The group will go caroling on Dec. 18, meeting at the Seeley home at 9 p.m.

Refreshments were served by the troop committee with Mrs. Ralph Hobbs, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Roscoe Wilson and Mrs. Wesley Hobbs, co-leader.

Guests were members of Senior Troops 55 and 26 of East Liverpool, Mrs. Ruth Sprouse, Council member, and mothers of the scouts.

THE PACIFIC NORTHWEST
Everything you want and then some

Many residents of the Pacific Northwest* make it a point never to leave the area. Everything a family could want to do or to see are within a few hours' drive of home.

Do you want to take your vacation in the mountains or at the seashore? In the Pacific Northwest you can do both. Some of the most spectacular mountains of this continent and the most inviting beaches are within a few hours' drive of each other.

Do you enjoy green forests or warm, sunny desert? Both are in the Pacific Northwest.

You can hunt with a scatter gun for birds and with a rifle for game, both in the same day. You can go boating on salt or fresh water in the morning and then ski in the afternoon. You can fish in salt water, magnificent rivers, or beautiful lakes.

The climate is moderate. The scenery is magnificent. The things to do are exciting. There is no better place to live — or to visit — than the Pacific Northwest. There is everything that you could want and then some.

Modern Structure Planned

Free Methodists Approve New Church Plans

Advanced plans for the modern church shown in this architect's sketch were presented to the congregation of the Oakland Free Methodist Church at a banquet Saturday night in the Beaver Local School.

The structure, which will be erected at Etruria St. and Wedgewood Ave., will be Y-shaped with a seating capacity of about 400.

The site is about three blocks from the present church on Holliday St.

The view shows the main entrance and steeple towering over the sanctuary with one wing to the right. The other wing will be at the rear.

The sanctuary, which will face the corner of Wedgewood and Etruria, will extend back to the two educational wings.

The larger wing will extend toward Etruria. The new structure will also have a church office and pastor's study.

Planning for the new building was started about two years ago when the Rev. C. H. Cannon, now of Weirton, was pastor.

The committee includes Frank Seevers, James Rutter, Paul Ward, Joseph Cowsert, Harold Kelly and James Heldreth. The Rev. S. H. Estel, present pastor, replaced Rev. Cannon on the committee.

James Heldreth was master of ceremonies. He introduced the Rev. Howard Artz of Spring Arbor, Mich., Sunday School field representative from the Free Methodist headquarters, as guest speaker.

Other guests included Chief of Police and Mrs. Americo Radeschi and daughters; Charles Edwards, president of Council; Robert Beatty, the architect, and the Rev. C. Howard Canon of Weirton, former pastor of the church.

The Rev. R. L. Page of East Liverpool, superintendent of the Rochester District of the Free Methodist Church, discussed ways and means of financing the project.

The welcome address was given by the Rev. S. H. Estel, pastor. Music was presented by a quartet from the First Church of the Nazarene.

Dinner was served to about 125 by the Booster Club of the school.

Membership Pins Presented At Chester Girl Scout Meeting

Membership pins were awarded at a meeting of Senior Girl Scout Troop 79 Thursday in the social rooms of the Chester Westminster United Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Eugene L. Seeley, leader, presented 5-year pins to Geraldine Bednarczyk, Deanna Brooks and Linda Carpenter. Other scouts receiving pins were Gretchen Allison, 4 years; Susan Kay Wilson, Carol Sue Tuttle, Katy Bailey and Anne Gregory, 7 years, and Betsy Hobbs, Marcella Lyons and Patty Mack, 8.

Eugene L. Seeley, a member of the troop committee, accepted a 10-year pin for his daughter, Marsha Seeley, who was unable to attend because of illness.

Miss Seeley joined scouting as a Brownie in 1950 under the leadership of Mrs. Rachel Stewart Allison and Mrs. Thelma Wells West at the Chester Presbyterian Church. In December of the next year, she transferred to the newly-organized Brownie Troop 9 at the Christian Church with her mother and Mrs. Don Anderson and Mrs. Howard McCullough as leaders.

She belonged to Intermediate Troop 51 at the same church with little change in leadership. As a member of Senior Troop 79, she has been active in community and council activities.

She attended the 1959 Round-Up in Colorado Springs. She hold a 7-year membership from Camp Garcia, the Weirton Girl Scout Camp. She has been for several years a senior aide for Brownie Troop 28.

Linda Carpenter, president, extended the welcome and was in charge of the flag ceremony and program. Miss Tuttle assisted with games and Miss Wilson with the singing.

Seeley screened a film, "A Mile High — A World Wide," the official film of the 1959 Round-Up. The group will go caroling on Dec. 18, meeting at the Seeley home at 9 p.m.

Refreshments were served by the troop committee with Mrs. Ralph Hobbs, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Roscoe Wilson and Mrs. Wesley Hobbs, co-leader.

Guests were members of Senior Troops 55 and 26 of East Liverpool, Mrs. Ruth Sprouse, Council member, and mothers of the scouts.

THE PACIFIC NORTHWEST
Everything you want and then some

Many residents of the Pacific Northwest* make it a point never to leave the area. Everything a family could want to do or to see are within a few hours' drive of home.

Do you want to take your vacation in the mountains or at the seashore? In the Pacific Northwest you can do both. Some of the most spectacular mountains of this continent and the most inviting beaches are within a few hours' drive of each other.

Do you enjoy green forests or warm, sunny desert? Both are in the Pacific Northwest.

You can hunt with a scatter gun for birds and with a rifle for game, both in the same day. You can go boating on salt or fresh water in the morning and then ski in the afternoon. You can fish in salt water, magnificent rivers, or beautiful lakes.

The climate is moderate. The scenery is magnificent. There is no better place to live — or to visit — than the Pacific Northwest. There is everything that you could want and then some.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I am a girl 12 years old and I think I have a problem.

Last night during dinner my father asked my sister to get up and bring him a glass of milk. All I said was: "Are you too lazy to get the milk yourself, Dad?"

He blew right up and yelled that I had opened my big mouth once too often and I wasn't getting any allowance next week. He also said I couldn't go to a show Saturday.

I said: "Why don't you make me a real hermit and cut my phone privileges, too?" He answered: "Thanks for the suggestion," and he did.

I always thought in a democracy people could say whatever they wanted. How about this? — SLAVE LABOR.

Dear Slave: Freedom of speech does not extend to sassing parents. Kids who speak disrespectfully to Mon and Dad should be hauled back in line promptly. Your father was perfectly right to clobber you on the spot.

Shocked Mother

Dear Ann: Last week I received a letter from my 33-year-old son. He's in the Army stationed up north.

His letter was pages long and mostly about a fine girl he had met. He's in love and wants to get married right away.

Toward the end of the letter I thought I was seeing things. He wrote: "She is pregnant and the baby isn't mine. I want to marry her and be a father to her child."

Three questions are running through my mind. Please help me decide: (1) Does this girl really love my son or is she just looking for a legal father for her baby? (2) Will I be able to love this child as I love my other grandchildren, knowing there's none of our family blood in his veins? (3) What will our friends think? — ABX.

-:-

Dear ABX: If your son married this girl — and he probably will — you must believe that (1) she loves him and is not just looking for a legal father for her child, (2) resolve to love the baby as you do your other grandchildren; he is not to blame for the circumstances of his birth, and (3) the opinions of your friends should be of no importance. Keep them out of this.

Wise Brother

Dear Ann: Every so often someone writes in to complain that an aging father is getting married for a second time. Usually the grown kids don't like it.

I'm an unmarried member of a large family, and in my 65 years of "relative watching" I've seen plenty. If Pa has no dough the kids are happy to see him marry some nice woman who will take care of him and keep him out of their hair in his old age.

If Pa has dough they hate to see some woman get her hands on him because it cuts down their share of the loot.

My brother had it pegged just right. After his wife passed away he married a lovely woman against the violent objections of his daughters. They wanted an agreement drawn up stating that the second wife would get only 10 per cent of his estate.

He told them, "Nothing doing —I raised you kids, sent you all to college and now that you're married I'm going to let your husbands take care of you." — WIZE OL' COOT.

Confidentially

TO RELIEVED: You did what was best for the kids. Tell him to be sure and write every month —even if it's only a check.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

McClaskey Again Heads Western Beaver Board

James P. McClaskey of Ohio View was re-elected president of the Western Beaver County Board of Education at a meeting Saturday afternoon.

He was chosen over John Flasco of Industry R.D. 1 by a vote of 7 to 6. The two men had tied at the reorganization meeting last Monday night.

Saturday's meeting was held at the Ray W. Snyder School in Industry.

Flasco was re-elected vice president.

McClaskey, 53, has been a school board member since 1938 and president eight years, including two under the district's merger in 1958. He is employed by the ESSO Standard Division of the Humble Oil & Refining Co. terminal near Midland and has been with the company 30 years. He and his wife, Rebekah, reside in Ohio View.

JAMES P. McCLASKEY
Re-elected In Close Vote.

The time and place of meetings was approved for the first Monday of the month in offices in the Snyder building, the same as previous.

Group To Attend Sessions Of OEA

Three East Liverpool teachers and a school administrator will attend the three-day convention of the Ohio Education Association opening Thursday in Columbus.

Milton Watson, president, Michael Misconish, treasurer, and Paul Burrows will attend as delegates from the East Liverpool Teachers Association. Asst. Supt. Paul Blair, new president of the East Central Ohio Teachers Association, also will attend.

The 880-member Representative Assembly will elect new officers, ballot on 6 constitutional amendments and hear reports from committees and commissions in the 5 sessions in Veterans Memorial Auditorium.

Gov. Michael V. DiSalle will speak at a banquet Thursday night, and Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association, will give an address Friday night on "America's Choice."

Gosney, DiSalle To Air County Judge Vacancy

Don R. Gosney of Columbiana, county Democratic chairman, said he will confer either today or Tuesday with Gov. Michael V. DiSalle at Columbus on a possible successor to the late Judge Earl Spalding of the county's Eastern Division Court at East Palestine.

Gosney said he has received only one application for the post. Judge Spalding, elected to a four-year term in November 1958, died Monday.

Gosney said the applicant is an attorney. The appointee need not be an attorney although the law provides that anyone running for county judge after Jan. 1, 1963, must be a lawyer with at least one year's experience.

The only exceptions would be nonlawyer judges in office on Jan. 1, 1962.

Gosney said he will learn from Gov. DiSalle what procedure need be taken on the appointment. He said he also will discuss the matter with members of the county executive committee.

Russia Warns Britain On American Sub Base

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union warned the British Sunday night that the Scottish base harboring U.S. Polaris submarines would be liable to attack in the event of "an incident" even outside British territorial waters.

A Soviet news agency Tass statement said British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan is mistaken in the thinking that only the sub would be the target of a return blow.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I am a girl 12 years old and I think I have a problem.

Last night during dinner my father asked my sister to get up and bring him a glass of milk. All I said was: "Are you too lazy to get the milk yourself, Dad?"

He blew right up and yelled that I had opened my big mouth once too often and I wasn't getting any allowance next week. He also said I couldn't go to a show Saturday.

I said: "Why don't you make me a real hermit and cut my phone privileges, too?" He answered: "Thanks for the suggestion," and he did.

I always thought in a democracy people could say whatever they wanted. How about this? — SLAVE LABOR.

-:-

Dear Slave: Freedom of speech does not extend to sassing parents. Kids who speak disrespectfully to Mon and Dad should be hauled back in line promptly. Your father was perfectly right to clobber you on the spot.

Shocked Mother

Other active employes invited to attend include Don R. Bomtempt, 427 Grant St., and Florence F. Howell, 823 Avondale St.

Retired employes to be honored include John L. Coyle of MC 22, James O. Heddleston, 515 E. 5th St., Joseph B. Reese of Fredericktown, and William H. Scott, 1006 Dresden Ave.

William T. McIntyre of Farmington, retired East Liverpool manager for Ohio Valley, also has been invited to attend.

Oldest Pilot Claimed

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — Frank Coffyn, 82, last of the five original members of the Wright brothers exhibition flying team and developer of many pioneer aids to aviation, died Saturday. Coffyn, who was the oldest pilot in the United States, was taught to fly by Orville Wright in 1910.

No Rise Seen In Ohio Jobs

By JAMES B. SIBBISON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government experts foresee little change, in the immediate future, in the unemplomyent situation in industrial areas of Ohio.

Steel production, for example, is not expected to increase right away, according to the Labor Department's most recent survey.

On the other hand, the survey says joblessness in steel probably won't get worse, either. It mentions, specifically, Cleveland as an important steel center which is scheduled to have relatively stable employment levels to mid-winter.

On the optimistic side, the survey predicts small increases in employment for the fabricated metals industry in Cleveland and Toledo.

Some small gains also are expected in non-electrical machinery in Cincinnati.

The survey lists five major Ohio areas as having "substantial" unemployment—that is, six per cent or more of the working force unemployed.

These major areas are Canton, Hamilton - Middletown, Lorain-Elyria, Steubenville-Weirton and Youngstown - Warren. Youngstown-Warren, according to the survey, has 9 to 11.9 per cent jobless, whereas the others have between 6 and 8.9 per cent.

Smaller areas in Ohio listed as having "substantial" unemployment (no specific percentage given) are listed as Ashtabula-Conneaut, East Liverpool-Salem, Kent-Ravenna and Portsmouth-Chillicothe.

Liquor-By-Drink Report Delayed In West Virginia

CHARLESTON (AP) — A special committee studying the feasibility of legalizing liquor by the drink in West Virginia apparently will not report its findings until after the 1961 Legislature convenes.

The group held another meeting Saturday but Del. Clarence C. Christian Jr., D-Mercer, co-chairman, said it had not had time to arrive at conclusions and make a report. Christian said the committee probably would not meet again until after the legislative session opens Jan. 11.

A special session of the Legislature last October set up the committee, made up of five members from the Senate and five from the House. Sen. Herbert Traubert D-Brooke, sponsored the resolution creating the committee and has served as the other co-chairman.

The committee was called upon to come up with a forecast of how much revenue the state could expect from legalizing the sale of liquor by the drink. It was asked also to appraise public sentiment on the matter of submitting the issue to the voters in a referendum.

Grieving Boy, 14, Flees Hospital At Urbana In Storm

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A distraught 14-year-old Urbana boy, bemoaning the death of his sweetheart in a mysterious shooting in which he was wounded, took off from Children's Hospital here Sunday. Dressed in pajamas, he walked 1½ miles in a driving snowstorm.

A nurse at the hospital said Walter Slone, picked up by police two hours later, had been crying for several days for his mother and for his girl friend, Louise Blosser, 17, killed Nov. 30 by a bullet in the head. The nurse said Walter had been talking about going home.

Police found Walter in the building, shivering and blue with cold. They took him back in the hospital where aides said he appeared none the worse for his excursion.

Walter was shot in the head with a .38 caliber pistol at his Urbana home. The Blosser girl, who police said had run away with him to Kentucky six weeks before in an unsuccessful attempt to get married, also was shot in the head and killed. They were found together in a bedroom.

Police said the bullet went through the girl's head and into Walter's. But there has been no official ruling as to who pulled the trigger and the case is still under investigation.

Since the Household Finance Corp. established its program of annual gifts in 1956, these have totaled more than $300,000, Seiferth said. SANTA and the BOY FISH by Lucrece Hudgins Beale

Costenbricker learns that Santa cannot help him in his search for the black pearl. He now regrets having put Santa's elves and reindeer to sleep. He cries to waken them by chanting his magic formula. But, alas, he cannot remember the words!

CHAPTER SEVEN

Costenbricker sat with his head in his hands. "I can't remember the words that will break the spell," he muttered unhappily.

"But you must!" cried Santa. "Think!"

"I am thinking," sighed Costenbricker. "But, as I told you, I am very old and I do not remember things as well as I did a hundred years ago. That is why I would like to have my black pearl. It will bring back my youth and my mind will be young and lively again."

Santa paced furiously up and down while Michael gazed horrified at the roomful of sleeping elves and Mrs. Claus fluttered her apron and moaned.

Suddenly Costenbricker's face lit up and he said sharply, "PEELS PEELS, ELTTE SEEVLE!"

—:—

ALL EYES turned and eagerly searched the room. But the elves slept peacefully on.

Costenbricker dropped again. "Those must have been the same words that put them to sleep," he said dolefully and he twisted his parasol round and round and pondered some more.

Santa threw up his hands and Mrs. Santa collapsed in a chair. Michael stood in a corner and thought and thought. Finally he came up to Costenbricker and said "Are you sure you would remember the words if you had your pearl?"

Oh, absolutely," said Costenbricker nodding his head vigorously.

"Then I will get the pearl," said Michael.

"What?" cried Santa.

"Make me the flippers and lungs you promised and I can dive for the sunken treasure," said Michael, his eyes shining with excitement.

"Please!" cried Michael. "Please let me try!"

"Oh, dear," said Santa. "I meant for you to explore in the friendly seas near your home. To dive for sunken treasure would be dangerous. Who knows what lies in the ocean deeps?"

"Please!" cried Michael. "Please let me try!"

Santa gazed in distress at his sleeping dwarfs and the mountain of unfinished toys. At last he said, "Very well. I must let you go, for unless you succeed we cannot have Christmas this year."

—:—

WITH MICHAEL at his heels, he hurried into his own private work room at the end of the shop. Here were tools of every description, and shelves of models, and barrels of tops and autos and boats and watches and a hundred other wonders.

On a nearby table were stacks of notebooks in which Santa kept, neatly listed, the requests for gifts from every little boy and girl in the world. On his desk there were blueprints for a marvelous new toy he had planned to put in every Christmas stocking that year.

While Michael watched in wonder, Santa set about pulling out sheets of rubber, blocks of glass, and tubes of plastic. Motors whirred and chips flew as he cut, fitted and molded. He worked quickly and surely but even so it was a long time before the job was finished.

Finally he was ready. He strapped a small round tank on Michael's shoulders and showed him how to connect it by a breathing tube to a face mask. Then he gave him a pair of strong rubber flippers.

"There," he said, "You are now a Boyfish and anywhere a fish can go you can go, too."

Michael examined his treasures. He could hardly wait to be away and at the bottom of the sea.

Costenbricker, leaning unsteadily on his parasol, appeared at the door. "Ready?" he asked.

"Wait a bit," said Santa. "I will get one of the reindeer to take you."

"The reindeer are asleep," Costenbricker reminded him sadly. "But no matter. I have my own means of transportation." With that he flung open the parasol at his side and said, "Come, Boyfish, we are off!"

SANTA and the BOY FISH by Lucrece Hudgins Beale

Costenbricker learns that Santa cannot help him in his search for the black pearl. He now regrets having put Santa's elves and reindeer to sleep. He cries to waken them by chanting his magic formula. But, alas, he cannot remember the words!

CHAPTER SEVEN

Costenbricker sat with his head in his hands. "I can't remember the words that will break the spell," he muttered unhappily.

"But you must!" cried Santa. "Think!"

"I am thinking," sighed Costenbricker. "But, as I told you, I am very old and I do not remember things as well as I did a hundred years ago. That is why I would like to have my black pearl. It will bring back my youth and my mind will be young and lively again."

Santa paced furiously up and down while Michael gazed horrified at the roomful of sleeping elves and Mrs. Claus fluttered her apron and moaned.

Suddenly Costenbricker's face lit up and he said sharply, "PEELS PEELS, ELTTE SEEVLE!"

—:—

ALL EYES turned and eagerly searched the room. But the elves slept peacefully on.

Costenbricker dropped again. "Those must have been the same words that put them to sleep," he said dolefully and he twisted his parasol round and round and pondered some more.

Santa threw up his hands and Mrs. Santa collapsed in a chair. Michael stood in a corner and thought and thought. Finally he came up to Costenbricker and said "Are you sure you would remember the words if you had your pearl?"

Oh, absolutely," said Costenbricker nodding his head vigorously.

"Then I will get the pearl," said Michael.

"What?" cried Santa.

"Make me the flippers and lungs you promised and I can dive for the sunken treasure," said Michael, his eyes shining with excitement.

"Please!" cried Michael. "Please let me try!"

"Oh, dear," said Santa. "I meant for you to explore in the friendly seas near your home. To dive for sunken treasure would be dangerous. Who knows what lies in the ocean deeps?"

"Please!" cried Michael. "Please let me try!"

Santa gazed in distress at his sleeping dwarfs and the mountain of unfinished toys. At last he said, "Very well. I must let you go, for unless you succeed we cannot have Christmas this year."

—:—

WITH MICHAEL at his heels, he hurried into his own private work room at the end of the shop. Here were tools of every description, and shelves of models, and barrels of tops and autos and boats and watches and a hundred other wonders.

On a nearby table were stacks of notebooks in which Santa kept, neatly listed, the requests for gifts from every little boy and girl in the world. On his desk there were blueprints for a marvelous new toy he had planned to put in every Christmas stocking that year.

While Michael watched in wonder, Santa set about pulling out sheets of rubber, blocks of glass, and tubes of plastic. Motors whirred and chips flew as he cut, fitted and molded. He worked quickly and surely but even so it was a long time before the job was finished.

Finally he was ready. He strapped a small round tank on Michael's shoulders and showed him how to connect it by a breathing tube to a face mask. Then he gave him a pair of strong rubber flippers.

"There," he said, "You are now a Boyfish and anywhere a fish can go you can go, too."

Michael examined his treasures. He could hardly wait to be away and at the bottom of the sea.

Costenbricker, leaning unsteadily on his parasol, appeared at the door. "Ready?" he asked.

"Wait a bit," said Santa. "I will get one of the reindeer to take you."

"The reindeer are asleep," Costenbricker reminded him sadly. "But no matter. I have my own means of transportation." With that he flung open the parasol at his side and said, "Come, Boyfish, we are off!"

Winter's Night Road Hazards Cited In Warning From Chief

Driving after dark in winter demands extra care, added courtesy and special equipment. Police Chief Americo J. Radeschi warned today.

Drivers who fail to exercise extra caution in the season of slippery highways and long nights are liable to find themselves in trouble, the chief added.

"Many drivers fail to realize they can't see as well after dark as they can during the day, even in main business areas where there are modern lighting systems," the chief said. "Consequently, they must depend upon their car's headlights."

"Headlights should be kept operating fully and properly," the chief said. "Police have been instructed to be on the alert for 'one-eyed' cars and they also will halt motorists whose stop lights are not functioning."

In city driving, motorists should be careful to keep their headlights on the low beam in order not to blind oncoming drivers, Radeschi said. Expecially when meeting or following another car, the headlights should be dimmed, he added.

Before stopping, the driver should touch the brake pedal lightly a few times, the chief said. This gives the driver behind a little extra warning, which might be vital on snow or ice, he added.

"Pedestrians deserve extra courtesy in winter, but they should be alert for their own welfare during slippery weather," the chief said. "It's much easier for the pedestrian to spot the headlights of an approaching car than it is for the motorist to spot a person afoot, particularly if he is wearing dark clothing."

Pedestrians should realize the special hazards drivers must overcome when streets are icy or covered with snow, the chief emphasized.

Motorists should be certain their windshield wipers and defrosters are working at top efficiency during winter months of frequent snow and ice.

Windshield wipers should be checked to make certain the blades are in top operating condition and are exerting proper pressure, the chief said. A full ounce of arm pressure is needed for each inch of blade length.

Club Owner, 63, Held In Youngstown Killing

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Oliver Patterson, 63, owner of a North Side social club, is under police guard at St. Elizabeth Hospital in connection with the fatal shooting of a 33-year-old man at the club. Dr. Nathan D. Belinky, Mahoning County deputy coroner, returned a verdict of homicide in the death of Sidke Muwalle early Sunday. Patterson was wounded in the hand.

Police said the shooting followed an argument between Patterson and Muwalle, who returned to the club after being evicted.

Americans now consume an average of about one pound of tea per person per year as against the British average of about 15 pounds per preson per year.

Rally By Potters Falls Short In 69-65 Loss At Alliance

Cunningham's 33 Points Pace ELHS

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

East Liverpool's Potters took a beating on the backboards and ran into an Alliance team which enjoyed one of its hot nights in dropping their opening game of the season, 69-65, Saturday night at Alliance despite a last-ditch effort which almost pulled the game out of the fire.

The loss came despite a 33-point performance by the Potter's whiz kid Kenny Cunningham.

Changing from football togs only a few weeks ago, Cunningham went about his business in the usual manner, the same that has made him the Potters' top scorer over the past two seasons and holder of every scoring record in the ELHS books.

—:—

THE SENIOR star tallied East Liverpool's last 10 points to pull his team within four points of the Aviators when time ran out.

Coach Jim Harris said he was pleased with the way the Potters came from far behind but still expressed concern about the height problem.

The Potter coach also commented: "You might think Cunningham was 100 per cent sound after scoring 33 points, but his leg still bothered him out there tonight."

Cunningham was slowed by a charley horse, but nevertheless his great shooting eye still accounted for more than half of his team's points.

The two squads got off to an even start, with Alliance taking a 16-15 lead at the end of the first period.

The Aviators held the upper hand throughout the second period and increased their lead to 36-31 by intermission.

The few minutes which staggered the Potters came early in the third period when Alliance bagged six straight points and forged in front 42-36.

—:—

FROM THIS point on it was an uphill battle for the Blue and White, which trailed at the end of the third quarter by 12 points, 55-43.

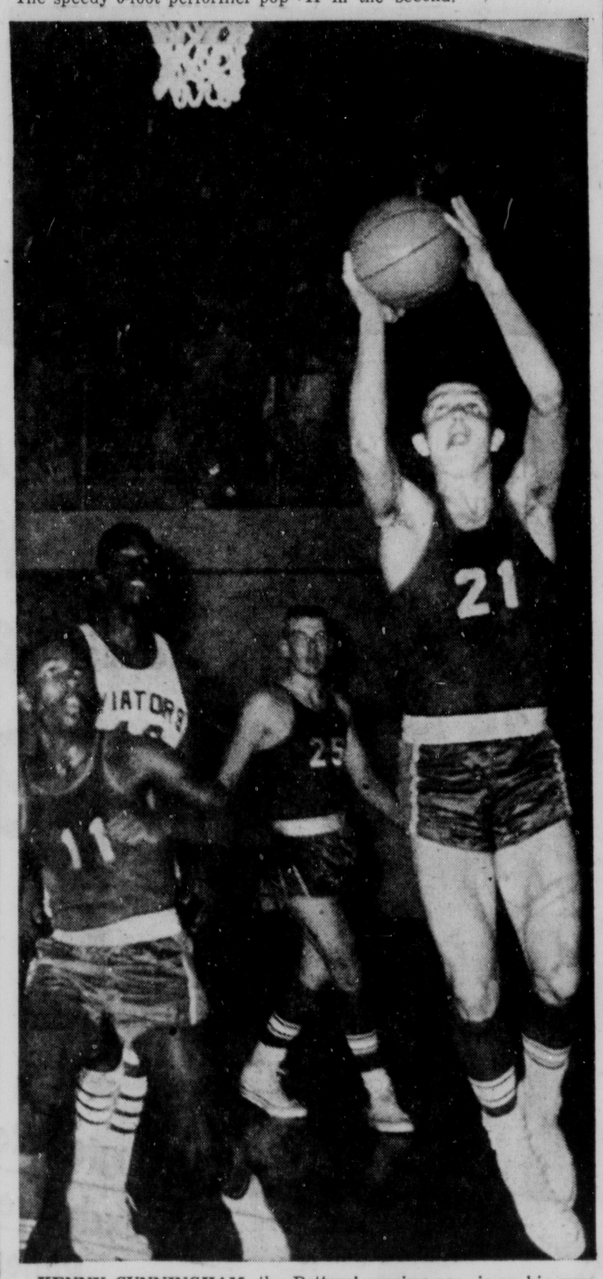
Height definitely hurt the Potters Saturday and undoubtedly will continue to plague them as the season rolls along.

Sam Longmire, Alliance's end in football, stands 6-foot-3 and is an exceptional jumper. Saturday night he had a field day on the backboards as he controlled the rebounding.

Besides grabbing most of the balls off the board, he contributed 13 points to the attack.

However, the real thorn in the Potters' side was Rick Taylor, only a sophomore, but already a rising star for the Aviators.

The speedy 6-foot performer popped them in from all over the floor and wound up with 25 points. His scoring was distributed evenly, 14 coming in the first half and 11 in the second.



KENNY CUNNINGHAM, the Potters' scoring ace, is on his way to one of 16 buckets he scored as he drove under for a layup in Saturday's opener at Alliance. Cunningham wound up with 33 points. No. 11 is Potters' sophomore Ed Prentice waiting in case of a rebound. Alliance won, 69-65.

East Liverpool's defense, which was spotty at times, couldn't concentrate on Taylor, since Veodis Byrd tallied 12 points and Bob Wallace 11.

Alliance's other starter, Ralph Moretti, dropped in eight.

Both teams took virtually the same number of shots and finished equal in the field goal department.

—:—

ALLIANCE WOUND up with 44 per cent on 29 of 65, while East Liverpool was just a shade lower with 29 of 68 for 42 percent.

The edge came at the foul line, with Alliance hitting on 11 of 18 chances and the Potters were 7 for 13.

Harris used seven players and the Potters lost one — Kenny Miller — on fouls with 5:08 remaining in the fourth quarter.

Behind Cunningham in the scoring came Mike Geon, who tallied nine points, with eight coming in the first half. Miller and sharpshooting Jack Deshler each had eight, while Perry Hurst added six.

Percentage-wise, Deshler was a hot number, getting three straight goals. He only shot five times, but hit on three.

Cunningham hit more than 50 per cent of his 26 shots.

Ed Prentice, the East Liverpool sophomore, only added one point to the Potter total, but showed signs of developing into a rebounder and defensive stalwart. His experience was against him Saturday.

In the Potter lineup, Deshler, Hurst, Prentice and Gary Steffen played in their first varsity game.

East Liverpool entered the fourth quarter trailing 55-43. But Cunningham opened with the first of 16 points he scored in the fourth quarter and Geon followed with a foul.

Alliance maintained an 11 and 9-point margin until 2:30 showed on the clock. At this point Cunningham hit on two straight and trimmed the lead to 64-59.

—:—

MORETTI CAME right back with a field goal, but Cunningham tallied again.

A basket and foul by Longmire pretty well finished the Potters with 1:15 seconds remaining, pushing the score to 69-61.

Before the final buzzer sounded Cunningham accounted for two more field goals.

East Liverpool's reserves fell before the Alliance Jayvees, 51-38. The young Aviators pulled away in the second half, after leading by six points at halftime.

Hill was tops for Alliance with 15 points, while Ron Jarvis collected seven for the Potters.

East Liverpool will open its home season Friday at Memorial Auditorium against Warren.

Paret Eyes Middleweight Title After First Defense

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Benny (Kid) Paret, winner of his first welterweight title defense, already is eyeing the middleweight title.

At least that's what his manager, Manuel Alfaro, said today he had in mind following the aggressive Cuban's crowd-pleasing, unanimous decision over Argentina's Federico Thompson at Madison Square Garden and over television Saturday night.

The 23-year-old Cuban is a hot property now in the talent-scarce boxing industry. Alfaro knows it, too.

The manager mentioned a battle of champions with NBA middleweight king Gene Fullmer after Garden matchmaker Teddy Brenner offered a March title fight with the winner of next Saturday's Luis Rodriguez-Emile Griffith clash. Rodriguez, another Cuban, is unbeaten and the No. 1 contender. Griffith is ranked fourth.

Paret, at 147 pounds, was sharp and fast. He swarmed all over his 32-year-old, 145½ pound foe with a two-fisted attack that seldom left Thompson with enough punching room to exert all his power. There were no knockdowns.

The Cuban was a 6-5 favorite. He has a 33-7-3 record. Thompson's three-year unbeaten streak was snapped at 32. His record is 100-8-9.

Rally By Potters Falls Short In 69-65 Loss At Alliance

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

East Liverpool's Potters took a beating on the backboards and ran into an Alliance team which enjoyed one of its hot nights in dropping their opening game of the season, 69-65, Saturday night at Alliance despite a last-ditch effort which almost pulled the game out of the fire.

The loss came despite a 33-point performance by the Potter's whiz kid Kenny Cunningham.

Changing from football togs only a few weeks ago, Cunningham went about his business in the usual manner, the same that has made him the Potters' top scorer over the past two seasons and holder of every scoring record in the ELHS books.

—:—

THE SENIOR star tallied East Liverpool's last 10 points to pull his team within four points of the Aviators when time ran out.

Coach Jim Harris said he was pleased with the way the Potters came from far behind but still expressed concern about the height problem.

The Potter coach also commented: "You might think Cunningham was 100 per cent sound after scoring 33 points, but his leg still bothered him out there tonight."

Cunningham was slowed by a charley horse, but nevertheless his great shooting eye still accounted for more than half of his team's points.

The two squads got off to an even start, with Alliance taking a 16-15 lead at the end of the first period.

The Aviators held the upper hand throughout the second period and increased their lead to 36-31 by intermission.

The few minutes which staggered the Potters came early in the third period when Alliance bagged six straight points and forged in front 42-36.

—:—

FROM THIS point on it was an uphill battle for the Blue and White, which trailed at the end of the third quarter by 12 points, 55-43.

Height definitely hurt the Potters Saturday and undoubtedly will continue to plague them as the season rolls along.

Sam Longmire, Alliance's end in football, stands 6-foot-3 and is an exceptional jumper. Saturday night he had a field day on the backboards as he controlled the rebounding.

Besides grabbing most of the balls off the board, he contributed 13 points to the attack.

However, the real thorn in the Potters' side was Rick Taylor, only a sophomore, but already a rising star for the Aviators.

The speedy 6-foot performer popped them in from all over the floor and wound up with 25 points. His scoring was distributed evenly, 14 coming in the first half and 11 in the second.

East Liverpool's defense, which was spotty at times, couldn't concentrate on Taylor, since Veodis Byrd tallied 12 points and Bob Wallace 11.

Alliance's other starter, Ralph Moretti, dropped in eight.

Both teams took virtually the same number of shots and finished equal in the field goal department.

—:—

ALLIANCE WOUND up with 44 per cent on 29 of 65, while East Liverpool was just a shade lower with 29 of 68 for 42 percent.

The edge came at the foul line, with Alliance hitting on 11 of 18 chances and the Potters were 7 for 13.

Harris used seven players and the Potters lost one — Kenny Miller — on fouls with 5:08 remaining in the fourth quarter.

Behind Cunningham in the scoring came Mike Geon, who tallied nine points, with eight coming in the first half. Miller and sharpshooting Jack Deshler each had eight, while Perry Hurst added six.

Percentage-wise, Deshler was a hot number, getting three straight goals. He only shot five times, but hit on three.

Cunningham hit more than 50 per cent of his 28 shots.

Ed Prentice, the East Liverpool sophomore, only added one point to the Potter total, but showed signs of developing into a rebounder and defensive stalwart. His experience was against him Saturday.

In the Potter lineup, Deshler, Hurst, Prentice and Gary Steffen played in their first varsity game.

East Liverpool entered the fourth quarter trailing 55-43. But Cunningham opened with the first of 16 points he scored in the fourth quarter and Geon followed with a foul.

Alliance maintained an 11 and 9-point margin until 2:30 showed on the clock. At this point Cunningham hit on two straight and trimmed the lead to 64-59.

—:—

MORETTI CAME right back with a field goal, but Cunningham tallied again.

A basket and foul by Longmire with 1:15 seconds remaining, pushing the score to 69-61.

Before the final buzzer sounded Cunningham accounted for two more field goals.

East Liverpool's reserves fell before the Alliance Jayvees, 51-38. The young Aviators pulled away in the second half, after leading by six points at halftime.

Hill was tops for Alliance with 15 points, while Ron Jarvis collected seven for the Potters.

East Liverpool will open its home season Friday at Memorial Auditorium against Warren.

Cunningham's 33 Points Pace ELHS

Paret Eyes Middleweight Title After First Defense

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Benny (Kid) Paret, winner of his first welterweight title defense, already is eyeing the middleweight title.

At least that's what his manager, Manuel Alfaro, said today he had in mind following the aggressive Cuban's crowd-pleasing, unanimous decision over Argentina's Federico Thompson at Madison Square Garden and over television Saturday night.

The 23-year-old Cuban is a hot property now in the talent-scarce boxing industry. Alfaro knows it, too.

The manager mentioned a battle of champions with NBA middleweight king Gene Fullmer after Garden matchmaker Teddy Brenner offered a March title fight with the winner of next Saturday's Luis Rodriguez-Emile Griffith clash. Rodriguez, another Cuban, is unbeaten and the No. 1 contender. Griffith is ranked fourth.

Paret, at 147 pounds, was sharp and fast. He swarmed all over his 32-year-old, 145¼ pound foe with a two-fisted attack that seldom left Thompson with enough punching room to exert all his power. There were no knockdowns.

The Cuban was a 6-5 favorite. He has a 33-7-3 record. Thompson's three-year unbeaten streak was snapped at 32. His record is 100-8-9.

Green Bay Clinches Tie In NFL

LA Surprises Colts; Packers Topple 49ers

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Green Bay Packers have clinched a tie for their first Western Conference title since 1944, apparently ending the Baltimore Colts' two-year reign as National Football League kingpins.

And the Packers seem to have gotten one of their biggest assists from a former Vanderbilt star named Billy Wade, who engineered the Los Angeles Rams to a 10-3 victory over the Colts Sunday.

Wade ran 66 yards for the deciding touchdown as the Rams prevented the defending world champions from tieing the Packers for first place in the West. Green Bay broke a three-way tie Saturday, sloshing to a 13-0 victory over San Francisco in the mud of Kezar Stadium.

However, the Colts' loss, and a 23-14 Detroit victory over Dallas has created another three way tie—this time for second place—in the conference. Baltimore, San Francisco and the Lions, each 6-5, trail Green Bay by a game. The Packers are 7-4, with the regular season coming to a close this weekend.

Then, Los Angeles will try to play spoiler twice in a row, meeting Green Bay, while the Colts play San Francisco. Detroit meets the Chicago Bears, creating the possibility of a three-way tie if the Packers lose and two of the other three win.

The Bears were eliminated by Cleveland, 42-0, with the latter retaining a half game edge for second place in the Eastern Conference over the New York Ginats. The Giants, plagued by five inches of snow in Washington, beat the Redskins, 17-3, to set up a showdown for runnerup in the East next Sunday with the Browns.

The Eastern champion Philadelphia Eagles suffered their first loss since opening day as Pittsburgh held on for a 27-21 upset.

In the American League, Houston clinched the Eastern championship with a 31-23 triumph over Buffalo after Los Angeles had grabbed the Western title by defeating Denver 41-33 in a Saturday game. Dallas thumped Boston 340 and New York edged Oakland 31-28 on Sunday's program.

The Rams (3-6-1) completely humiliated Baltimore's offensive-laden Colts, snapping Johnny Unitas' TD-a-game streak at 47 while handing the reeling champs their third straight setback.

Baltimore, failing to score a touchdown for the first time since a 1956 loss to Detroit, took a 3-0 lead in the first quarter on Steve Myhra's nine-yard field goal. It stood up until Wade electrified the crowd of 75,461 in Los Angeles' Memorial Coliseum.

Although he failed to connect for a TD, Unitas gained 182 yards through the air and broke the NFL one-season record for yards gained passing with 2,939. That eclipsed Sammy Baugh's 1947 mark by one yard.

Hornung, who has scored a record 165 points, kicked a 38-yard field goal with 51 seconds remaining in the first half for what proved to be all the points Green Bay needed in their muddy showdown struggle with the 49ers.

Quarterback Earl Morrall, getting the starting assignment after his last-play 65-yard TD heave beat the Colts last week, guided the Lions to the triumph that made Dallas (0-11-1) the first NFL team since 1944 to to through a season without a victory. Nick Pietrosante scored twice for Detroit on 43 and 40-yard runs.

The seven Cleveland interceptions of Ed Brown and Zeke Bratkowski tosses were run back 213 yards—an NFL record. Bernie Parrish returned one steal 92 yards for a touchdown and Bobby Franklin rambled 31 and 37 yards for scores while continually harassing the Bears' (5-5-1) air attack.

John Henry Johnson was the show on a snow-covered field for the Steelers (5-5-1). He took a seven-yard pass from Bobby Layne for one touchdown, raced 87 yards—longest in the league this season—for another score and wound up his performance against Philadelphia (9-2) with an 18-yard TD strike to Buddy Dial.

Washington (1-8-2) led 3-0 on Bob Khayat's first-period field goal before Charley Conerly flipped a nine-yard scoring pass to Joe Morrison in he third quarter and started the Giants moving.

Bradley Proves Midwestern Power

Ohio State Catches Army Out Of Step In 103-54 Win

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ohio State, led by All America Jerry Lucas, has done nothing to shake the idea the Buckeyes are the team to beat for the Big Ten basketball championship again this year—and perhaps the NCAA crown for the second consecutive season.

There is another Mid-western outfit that might challenge Ohio State when the tournaments roll around next March. Bradley is the name, and rivals in New York's National Invitation tournament are well aware of it.

Ohio State pulverized Army Saturday, 103-54 for its third straight victory after fairly easy wins over Ohio University and St. Louis. The Bucks, loaded with talent, had four players scoring in double figures, Lucas tops with 29.

Bradley, also undefeated, had a little more trouble, but pulled away in the final four minutes to defeat Butler 71-65. Previously, Bradley beat Minnesota and the California Aggies. Bradley has been going along as runner-up to Cincinnati in the Missouri Valley Conference, but it looks as if the Braves could make the grade this time. That would put them in the NCAA, and could bring a tournament summit meeting with Ohio State if things follow the script.

Wichita and Drake, who are unbeaten and could make it tough in the Missouri Valley race for Bradley, also won. Wichita clipped Iowa State 75-58, while Drake downed Michigan 83,72.

Illinois and Michigan State, also unbeaten in the Big Ten, were idle Saturday. The Illini meet Colorado, 71-57 winner over Oregon Saturday, tonight at Boulder.

Detroit won over Indiana 81-79 in double overtime on Tom Villemure's 20-foot corner set shot in the final second. Maryland also invaded Big Ten territory and bounced Minnesota around 64,53.

Maryland and North Carolina State are 4-0 in the Atlantic Coast Conference, where a tight race looms. Duke (3-0) and North Carolina (2-0) also are to be reckoned with. Duke defeated West Virginia 66-64, and N.C. State downed The Citadel 88-71, with North Carolina idle but meeting Kentucky Tuesday.

Gary Cunningham scored 24 points to lead UCLA to a 93-69 victory over barnstorming New York University. Kansas State stopped Southern California 66,57. Touring Miami (Fla.) ran into a buzzsaw as Brigham Young won 112-80, and Utah scuttled Texas Christian 101-55. Wyoming also added to the woes of Southwest conference teams, beating Baylor 58-52, while Tulane took Texas 63-49.

Arkansas managed a 77-71 victory over Mississippi, and Oklahoma State finally lost, with Tulsa the victor 59-57. Rice beat LSU 67-50.

St. Bonaventure rallied to make it 4-0 by defeating Eastern Kentucky 78-69, and Niagara also came from behind to beat LaSalle 77-71.

The Bluegrass festival tournament opens tonight at Louisville with Western Kentucky (4-0) meeting Utah State (2-2) and Georgia Tech (3-0) taking on Louisville (5-0). Louisville tuned up Saturday by defeating Xavier of Ohio 76-64.

? And Liston To Appear In Senate Probe

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former champion whose identity has been shielded and heavyweight title contender Sonny Liston today move into the Senate's prizefight hearings.

Investigators want to know more about the reported covey of underworld figures behind Liston, who has a lengthy police record to go with his sensational 30-1 ring record.

The Senate subcommittee inquiring into undercover skullduggery in boxing heard a St. Louis police officer testify last week that Liston's manager, Joseph (Pep) Barone of Allentown, Pa., is a mere front for mobster Frankie Carbo, Frank (Blinky) Palermo, St. Louis thug John J. Vitale and two unknown others.

As far as police are concerned, Liston has a record of 16 arrests in St. Louis and two major convictions on pleas of guilty. They were for robberies in 1950 and assaulting a policeman in 1956.

John G. Bonomi, special counsel to the subcommittee, threw a screen around the ex-champion who faces questioning. Although he knew of no threats, Bonomi said that naming the witness in advance might expose him to physical harm. The subcommittee's policy, he said, "is to protect any witness who may give damaging tesimony."

Besmanoff Is Miteff's Sub In Cleveland Fight

CLEVELAND (AP)— Complaining of sore eyes, Alex Miteff of Argentina has pulled out of a 10-rounder scheduled for Tuesday night against Pete Rademacher of Grandview, Wash., and Willi Besmanoff, 28-year-old Milwaukee heavyweight, will fight in Miteff's place.

Miteff took some heavy late round punches to the head last Tuesday in losing to Henry Cooper in London, England. Sunday, when he showed up here for a physical examination, Miteff said he didn't feel ready to go through with Tuesday's bout.

He said he took too much sun lamp treatment trying to heal the bumps over his eyes.

"It hurts me. I don't sleep for two nights," he said. "I want to fight Rademacher, but not Tuesday."

Dave Ott, city boxing commissioner, ordered Miteff examined by an oculist today and on the results of that examination will decide whether to take any action against the Argentinian scrapper

Wyoming also added to the woes of Southwest conference teams, beating Baylor 58-52, while Tulane took Texas 63-49.

Arkansas managed a 77-71 victory over Mississippi, and Oklahoma State finally lost, with Tulsa the victor 59-57. Rice beat LSU 67-50.

St. Bonaventure rallied to make it 4-0 by defeating Eastern Kentucky 78-69, and Niagara also came from behind to beat LaSalle 77-71.

The Bluegrass festival tournament opens tonight at Louisville with Western Kentucky (4-0) meeting Utah State (2-2) and Georgia Tech (3-0) taking on Louisville (5-0). Louisville tuned up Saturday by defeating Xavier of Ohio 76-64.

? And Liston To Appear In Senate Probe

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former champion whose identity has been shielded and heavyweight title contender Sonny Liston today move into the Senate's prizefight hearings.

Investigators want to know more about the reported covey of underworld figures behind Liston, who has a lengthy police record to go with his sensational 30-1 ring record.

The Senate subcommittee inquiring into undercover skullduggery in boxing heard a St. Louis police officer testify last week that Liston's manager, Joseph (Pep) Barone of Allentown, Pa., is a mere front for mobster Frankie Carbo, Frank (Blinky) Palermo, St. Louis thug John J. Vitale and two unknown others.

As far as police are concerned, Liston has a record of 16 arrests in St. Louis and two major convictions on pleas of guilty. They were for robberies in 1950 and assaulting a policeman in 1956.

John G. Bonomi, special counsel to the subcommittee, threw a screen around the ex-champion who faces questioning. Although he knew of no threats, Bonomi said that naming the witness in advance might expose him to physical harm. The subcommittee's policy, he said, "is to protect any witness who may give damaging tesimony."

Besmanoff Is Miteff's Sub In Cleveland Fight

CLEVELAND (AP)— Complaining of sore eyes, Alex Miteff of Argentina has pulled out of a 10-rounder scheduled for Tuesday night against Pete Rademacher of Grandview, Wash., and Willi Besmanoff, 28-year-old Milwaukee heavyweight, will fight in Miteff's place.

Miteff took some heavy late round punches to the head last Tuesday in losing to Henry Cooper in London, England. Sunday, when he showed up here for a physical examination, Miteff said he didn't feel ready to go through with Tuesday's bout.

He said he took too much sun lamp treatment trying to heal the bumps over his eyes.

"It hurts me. I don't sleep for two nights," he said. "I want to fight Rademacher, but not Tuesday."

Dave Ott, city boxing commissioner, ordered Miteff examined by an oculist today and on the results of that examination will decide whether to take any action against the Argentinian scrapper

12 Pennsy Cars Derail In Zanesville District

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Railroad crews worked today to restore normal westbound traffic which was blocked Sunday by the derailment of 12 cars of a 120-car Pennsylvania Railroad freight train at nearby Trinway. No one was hurt.

The wreckage spilled over both westbound Pennsylvania tracks. Eastbound tracks were not affected. Vehicular traffic was held up almost an hour by the tail end of the train which blocked the Ohio 77 crossing.

New Mexico suffered more casualties per capita than any other state during World War II.

Don't Overlook The Home

Some Family Resolutions

NEW YORK — While you're making your New Year's resolutions, don't overlook home sweet home. Here are 10 that are easy to keep and which will benefit everyone in the family.

1.—Be colorful . . . Repaint a room in a color you've never before used. It's a sure way to give a lift to everything in the room, including the people.

2.—Be an early bird . . . Before the snow melts, make sure your screens are in good repair. And remember, while aluminum, copper and brass screens do not rust in the usual sense, they do corrode. Corrosion may cause downwash which will stain the woodwork below. There are special screen enamels which give a tough corrosion-resistant coating to the wire. They're easily applied and do not clog the mesh.

3.—Meet the Multi-Colors . . . If you haven't as yet enjoyed the beautiful results of multi-color paint, don't miss out any longer. Multi-colors permit you to apply two or more colors simultaneously. Durable as well as attractive, these coatings are ideal for both walls and furniture.

4.—Don't slip up on safety . . . Check the condition of the basement steps. After making necessary repairs, apply a coat of quick-drying latex floor enamel. Choose a bright color which will catch the eyes and caution the feet to prevent a slight misstep which can cause a serious accident.

5.—Stripe one in Sixty-One . . . One wall coated in an attractive striped design can make the entire room look new. It provides a focal point of interest, or you can use it as a background for your most treasured furnishings. It's simple to do: First paint the wall in the desired background color and let it dry thoroughly. Then apply strips of masking tape in the pattern you wish. Paint the exposed areas in the contrasting color or colors and let dry. Remove the tape, and you'll have a gaily-striped wall.

6.—If you can't polish it, paint it . . . When no amount of polishing will help your table or bookcase or dresser, wash off the wax with paint thinner and bring out the paint brushes. A coat of enamel will work wonders. Enameled furniture is very popular these days and blends handsomely with any decor.

7.—Enjoy the Midas touch. . . For that tarnished lamp base or old fashioned lighting fixture or tired mirror frame, gold paint will work magic. You' turn eye-sores into eye-catchers.

8.—Prepare for painting . . . avoid the last-minute rush and organize your garden tools before it's time to start digging. A little brush work with enamel on the handles will protect them from the dampness, and at the same time be a quick means of identification — a help if you have borrowing neighbors.

9.—Be Quality Conscious . . . It's important to keep quality in mind when buying products of any kind, but particularly when buying paint. After all, you can't return a painted room for a refund, nor can you be repaid for the time you invested in doing the job. Deal with a reliable paint store which carries the quality products of reputable, long-established manufacturers who are interested in pleasing customers and not quick profits. Avoid paints sold at ridiculously low prices or on a perennial "special" deal basis.

10.—Handle With Care . . . Your paint brushes are valuable tools. Quality brushes, like quality paints, are long lasting. With reasonable care, they will serve you for many jobs in the future.

Always clean your brushes immediately after use. Use turpentine for cleaning oil-based paints . . . soap and water when latexes have been used. After all paint has been removed, rinse in plain water. comb out the bristles and let dry. Then wrap in brown paper and store flat, or suspend from the handles, but never stand the brushes on the bristle end.

WASHABLE BEDROOM. The check wallpaper and border trim are do-it-yourself projects, easy to maintain and a joy to children.

Decorations Go Well With Child's Room

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A child's room can be a decorating triumph in these days of do-it-yourself ideas, and it doesn't require a big budget to do the job.

Furniture that grows with the child, decorating short-cuts and modern washability of furnishings all help make the small child's room a joy to contrive and maintain.

The amateur decorator is assisted by many easy - does - it plans. New pre-pasted wallpapers have companion paper borders which can be used in interesting and effective ways, and matching fabric that carries out the bedroom scheme at the window.

One do-it-yourself idea that can see a child into the teen years is a chic check wallpaper that picks up one of three predominant colors in a wall border, and helps set the color scheme for the room.

The 20-inch border shows a gay zoo parade marching to a band. It may be removed in future years if desired and another border added.

The room color scheme is green, pink or blue. All three colors are in the border, and the one color chosen for the check is used at the window in sturdy cotton cafe curtains.

The border may be used as a decoration on the shade, headboards or other flat surfaces, such as cabinets that need to be livened up or tied into the room decor. The wall border should be placed at the child's eye level.

Pink and green may be used in chair cushions and bedspread. A vinyl floor is another feature of the easy-care room. Top it with a machine washable cotton rug.

New rugs to thrill any youngster have animal motif. A horse-minded child might like a rug design of a mare and foal in authentic colors.

There is a rug dramatized with three kittens who have obviously lost their mittens, another with an authentic reproduction of an antique reproduction of an antique automobile. There are ABC rugs with whimsical figures for small children.

Animal - shaped rugs steal their thunder from the hunter's lodge, and even in the large 3-by-6-foot sizes are machine washable. These acrilic and modacrylic pile rugs include a free form camel shape in tan, brown or black. There are baby, mama and papa bears, in mint, antique gold and melon as well as conventional bear colors. A wild-looking tiger skin will be cherished by any young explorer.

Furniture that grows with a child includes chests with doors that may be reversed from gay colors to cane finish, and unpainted chests that can go from babyhood to teen years.

A small table and chairs is a practical addition to the washable bedroom, a good spot for snacks, reading and games.

Do's And Don'ts Suggested For Real Estate Salesmen

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

When it comes time to sell, quite a few home owners are under the impression they can arrange better deals than professionals.

Sometimes they can. But more often than not, they can sell their houses faster and with more financial benefits to themselves, even allowing for commissions, if they utilize the services of real estate organizations.

Anyone who is successful in the business of selling houses knows how many pitfalls there are in the path of a completed sale.

In this connection, we thought you would be interested in an article in the November issue of an industry publication, the National Association of Home Builders Journal. Titled "Little Things Make A Big Difference," the article lists 30 reasons why a real estate salesman may miss out on a sale even though he is selling a good house at a reasonable price.

For instance, to make a good impression on a prospective buyer, it is considered important that the salesman avoid "hand pumping," "shoe tapping" and "wiggle judging."

We all know what hand pumpers and shoe tappers are, but do you know what a wiggle judger is? It's a man who lets "a tight skirt or well-turned calf throw him off the track." As author Ted Pollock, a marketing consultant puts it, "if your message isn't worth your complete attention, certainly it isn't worth your prospect's."

To sell a house, you have to be polite. But not too polite. The advice here is that there are situations "in which a salesman must unbend a little if a buyer is to feel comfortable in his presence."

Also, you mustn't talk too much or too fast or have too many "uhs" and "ehs" between phrases. And while jokes are fine in their place, use them sparingly and with considerable caution. Don't exaggerate (it says there) and don't poke your finger to emphasize every point.

Since the very first impression a prospect forms depends on what he sees, a detailed check list is given for the seller's appearance.

His hair should be cut and neatly combed. He should be freshly shaved, his tie should be knotted neatly, his shirt should be clean, his jacket collar should show about half-an-inch of shirt collar, and his jacket sleeves should be cut to expose about half-an-inch of the shirt cuffs. His nails should be cleaned and trimmed, his shoes shined and his trousers neatly creased.

Women, as well as men, sell houses. Wouldn't they have a puzzling time trying to pass some of those appearance tests?

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I make the peeling of hard-cooked eggs much easier?

A. By adding salt to the water in which eggs are hard-cooked, you harden the shell and make it much easier to strip off. A quick dunk in cold water helps, too, as does rolling the egg around to crush the shell somewhat before you begin peeling.

Q. What decoration idea will "lower" an old-fashioned high-ceilinged room?

A. You can make this room appear lower by painting its walls a dark color, the ceiling very light or white.

Q. How can I improvise a cork when I've lost the real article?

A. A very satisfactory substitute for a lost cork is an inch or two of candle. Soften up the wax a bit and your candle "cork" will fit.

The fastest animal in America is the pronghorn, an antelope with bursts of speed up to 40 or 50 miles an hour.

2.—Be an early bird . . . Before the snow melts, make sure your screens are in good repair. And remember, while aluminum, copper and brass screens do not rust in the usual sense, they do corrode. Corrosion may cause downwash which will stain the woodwork below. There are special screen enamels which give a tough corrosion-resistant coating to the wire. They're easily applied and do not clog the mesh.

3.—Meet the Muiti-Colors . . . If you haven't as yet enjoyed the beautiful results of multi-color paint, don't miss out any longer. Multi-colors permit you to apply two or more colors simultaneously. Durable as well as attractive, these coatings are ideal for both walls and furniture.

4.—Don't slip up on safety . . . Check the condition of the basement steps. After making necessary repairs, apply a coat of quick-drying latex floor enamel. Choose a bright color which will catch the eyes and caution the feet to prevent a slight misstep which can cause a serious accident.

5.—Stripe one in Sixty-One . . . One wall coated in an attractive striped design can make the entire room look new. It provides a focal point of interest, or you can use it as a background for your most treasured furnishings. It's simple to do: First paint the wall in the desired background color and let it dry thoroughly. Then apply strips of masking tape in the pattern you wish. Paint the exposed areas in the contrasting color or colors and let dry. Remove the tape, and you'll have a gaily-striped wall.

6.—If you can't polish it, paint it . . . When no amount of polishing will help your table or bookcase or dresser, wash off the wax with paint thinner and bring out the paint brushes. A coat of enamel will work wonders. Enameled furniture is very popular these days and blends handsomely with any decor.

7.—Enjoy the Midas touch. . . For that tarnished lamp base or old fashioned lighting fixture or tired mirror frame, gold paint will work magic. You' turn eye-sores into eye-catchers.

8.—Prepare for painting . . . avoid the last-minute rush and organize your garden tools before it's time to start digging. A little brush work with enamel on the handles will protect them from the dampness, and at the same time be a quick means of identification — a help if you have borrowing neighbors.

9.—Be Quality Conscious . . . It's important to keep quality in mind when buying products of any kind, but particularly when buying paint. After all, you can't return a painted room for a refund, nor can you be repaid for the time you invested in doing the job. Deal with a reliable paint store which carries the quality products of reputable, long-established manufacturers who are interested in pleasing customers and not quick profits. Avoid paints sold at ridiculously low prices or on a perennial "special" deal basis.

10.—Handle With Care . . . Your paint brushes are valuable tools. Quality brushes, like quality paints, are long lasting. With reasonable care, they will serve you for many jobs in the future.

Always clean your brushes immediately after use. Use turpentine for cleaning oil-based paints . . . soap and water when latexes have been used. After all paint has been removed, rinse in plain water. comb out the bristles and let dry. Then wrap in brown paper and store flat, or suspend from the handles, but never stand the brushes on the bristle end.

WASHABLE BEDROOM. The check wallpaper and border trim are do-it-yourself projects, easy to maintain and a joy to children.

Decorations Go Well With Child's Room

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A child's room can be a decorating triumph in these days of do-it-yourself ideas, and it doesn't require a big budget to do the job.

Furniture that grows with the child, decorating short-cuts and modern washability of furnishings all help make the small child's room a joy to contrive and maintain.

The amateur decorator is assisted by many easy - does - it plans. New pre-pasted wallpapers have companion paper borders which can be used in interesting and effective ways, and matching fabric that carries out the bedroom scheme at the window.

One do-it-yourself idea that can see a child into the teen years is a chic check wallpaper that picks up one of three predominant colors in a wall border, and helps set the color scheme for the room.

The 20-inch border shows a gay zoo parade marching to a band. It may be removed in future years if desired and another border added.

The room color scheme is green, pink or blue. All three colors are in the border, and the one color chosen for the check is used at the window in sturdy cotton cafe curtains.

The border may be used as a decoration on the shade, headboards or other flat surfaces, such as cabinets that need to be livened up or tied into the room decor. The wall border should be placed at the child's eye level.

Pink and green may be used in chair cushions and bedspread. A vinyl floor is another feature of the easy-care room. Top it with a machine washable cotton rug.

New rugs to thrill any youngster have animal motif. A horse-minded child might like a rug design of a mare and foal in authentic colors.

There is a rug dramatized with three kittens who have obviously lost their mittens, another with an authentic reproduction of an antique reproduction of an antique automobile. There are ABC rugs with whimsical figures for small children.

Animal - shaped rugs steal their thunder from the hunter's lodge, and even in the large 3-by-6-foot sizes are machine washable. These acrilic and modacrylic pile rugs include a free form camel shape in tan, brown or black. There are baby, mama and papa bears, in mint, antique gold and melon as well as conventional bear colors. A wild-looking tiger skin will be cherished by any young explorer.

Furniture that grows with a child includes chests with doors that may be reversed from gay colors to cane finish, and unpainted chests that can go from babyhood to teen years.

A small table and chairs is a practical addition to the washable bedroom, a good spot for snacks, reading and games.

Do's And Don'ts Suggested For Real Estate Salesmen

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

When it comes time to sell, quite a few home owners are under the impression they can arrange better deals than professionals.

Sometimes they can. But more often than not, they can sell their houses faster and with more financial benefits to themselves, even allowing for commissions, if they utilize the services of real estate organizations.

Anyone who is successful in the business of selling houses knows how many pitfalls there are in the path of a completed sale.

In this connection, we thought you would be interested in an article in the November issue of an industry publication, the National Association of Home Builders Journal. Titled "Little Things Make A Big Difference," the article lists 30 reasons why a real estate salesman may miss out on a sale even though he is selling a good house at a reasonable price.

For instance, to make a good impression on a prospective buyer, it is considered important that the salesman avoid "hand pumping," "shoe tapping" and "wiggle judging."

We all know what hand pumpers and shoe tappers are, but do you know what a wiggle judger is? It's a man who lets "a tight skirt or well-turned calf throw him off the track." As author Ted Pollock, a marketing consultant puts it, "if your message isn't worth your complete attention, certainly it isn't worth your prospect's."

To sell a house, you have to be polite. But not too polite. The advice here is that there are situations "in which a salesman must unbend a little if a buyer is to feel comfortable in his presence."

Also, you mustn't talk too much or too fast or have too many "uhs" and "ehs" between phrases. And while jokes are fine in their place, use them sparingly and with considerable caution. Don't exaggerate (it says there) and don't poke your finger to emphasize every point.

Since the very first impression a prospect forms depends on what he sees, a detailed check list is given for the seller's appearance.

His hair should be cut and neatly combed. He should be freshly shaved, his tie should be knotted neatly, his shirt should be clean, his jacket collar should show about half-an-inch of shirt collar, and his jacket sleeves should be cut to expose about half-an-inch of the shirt cuffs. His nails should be cleaned and trimmed, his shoes shined and his trousers neatly creased.

Women, as well as men, sell houses. Wouldn't they have a puzzling time trying to pass some of those appearance tests?

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I make the peeling of hard-cooked eggs much easier?

A. By adding salt to the water in which eggs are hard-cooked, you harden the shell and make it much easier to strip off. A quick dunk in cold water helps, too, as does rolling the egg around to crush the shell somewhat before you begin peeling.

Q. What decoration idea will "lower" an old-fashioned high-ceilinged room?

A. You can make this room appear lower by painting its walls a dark color, the ceiling very light or white.

Q. How can I improvise a cork when I've lost the real article?

A. A very satisfactory substitute for a lost cork is an inch or two of candle. Soften up the wax a bit and your candle "cork" will fit.

The fastest animal in America is the pronghorn, an antelope with bursts of speed up to 40 or 50 miles an hour.

Construction Under Way At Sulphur Plant

Initial construction has started for the new $1¼ million liquid sulphur terminal facilities of the Freeport Sulphur Co. on an 18-acre tract along the Ohio River in Wellsville.

The Potters Construction Co. of East Liverpool is erecting piling and concrete foundations for two sulphur storage tanks on land adjoining a 3.2-acre riverfront tract below 25th St. which Freeport acquired Nov. 3 for docking facilities.

The terminal is to be a storage and distribution center for liquid sulphur barged upriver from Freeport's Louisiana mines. At Wellsville, the sulphur will be transhipped to customers in a multi-state area.

Terminal facilities will include docks for liquid sulphur barges, pipelines to carry the sulphur over the flood wall and the railroad, and storage tanks and equipment for reloading the sulphur into railroad tank cars for overland shipment.

Construction was started Nov 28 and the project is expected to be completed in May, 1961.

The Chicago Bridge & Iron Co. received the contract for installing the two sulphur storage tanks. The dredging and mooring cells for the river loading dock will be a project of the Pihl & Miller Co. of Pittsburgh.

Plans call for the eventual construction of three storage tanks on land which Freeport is purchasing from the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The over-all terminal site, including the city land and the Pennsy tract, totals almost 18 acres.

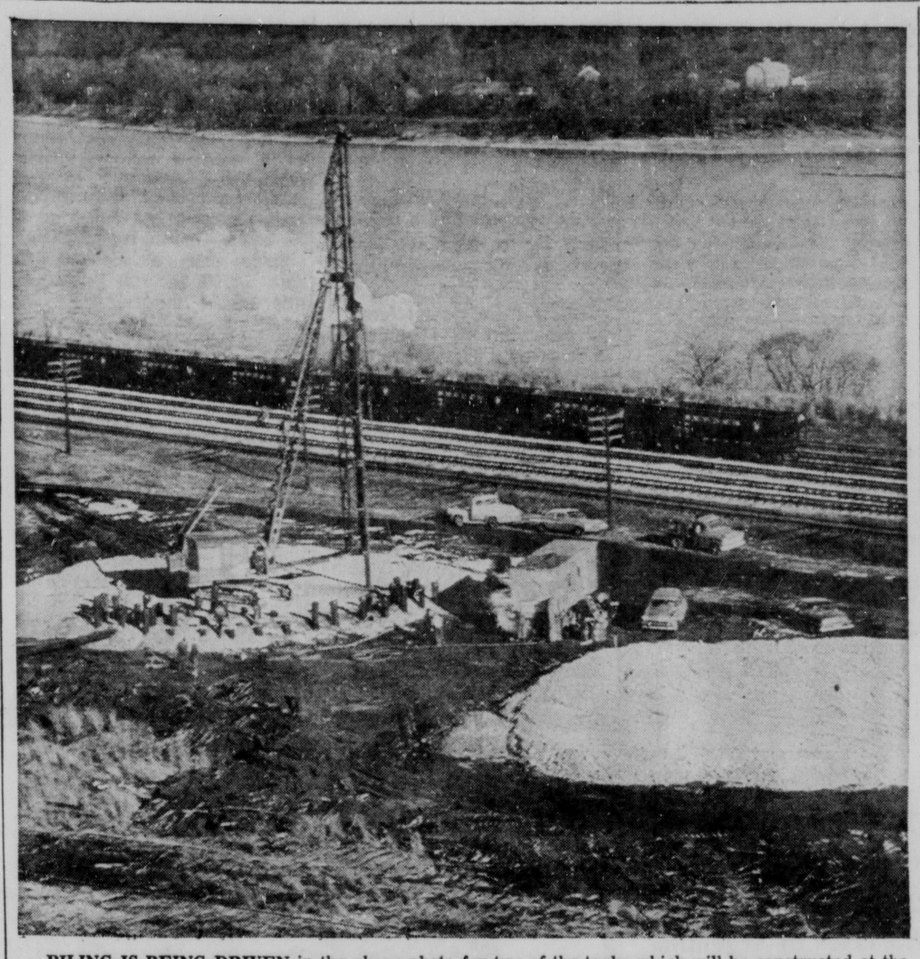
From Freeport's Louisiana shipping point — Port Sulphur— liquid sulphur will be delivered to the tank farm by high-speed, integrated barge tows.

The barges will tie up at Wellsville at docking facilities which will comprise four cells of mooring dolphins. Two of the cells are equipped with hose facilities for unloading the liquid sulphur and feeding it to the tank farm through a pipe bridge over the railroad right-of-way.

The terminal, which will be operated by Sulphur Terminals Co., is a key link in a distribution system increasingly geared to delivery of sulphur as a liquid, the company said. The firm's headquarters are in New York.

While sulphur normally is allowed to "freeze" and shipped as a solid, heated and insulated handling equipment such as will be used at Wellsville permits the chemical to be moved in liquid form from mine to customer.

This is a convenience to customers and also eliminates dust and possible contamination of the product, the firm said.



PILING IS BEING DRIVEN in the above photo for two of the tanks which will be constructed at the Wellsville facility of the Freeport Sulphur Co. on an 18-acre tract along the Ohio River.

Big Kitchen In Small Space

A Design For Efficiency

PORTLAND, Ore. — How can you get a big kitchen into a small space?

Much as this may sound like an impossible Chinese puzzle, it's a trick that's being solved every day in every neighborhood across the nation.

With building lots becoming generally more expensive and choice land dwindling, the average family is erecting a house that's considerably smaller in square footage than their parents' home. The number of rooms remains about the same, but the size of each is being paired.

—:—

HAPPILY, the kitchen is one room that has profited from its reducing diet. Architects have discovered that they can design a fully equipped and much more efficient kitchen than yesteryear's rambling cuisine when using about half the space.

And the housewife has taken great delight in her new, compact cook area, for even the most elaborate meal can be prepared in a matter of only two or three steps.

Often the new-look kitchen is built in pullman-car style, with cabinets and work counters arranged along two parallel walls that are separated by about five feet.

The small kitchen is usually designed in conjunction with a dining area or family room and opens into it at one end. Or the wall separating kitchen and adjoining area may be designed with open pass throughs or even space between the top bank of cabinets and the ceiling to visually expand the kitchen's space.

WHEN DEVISING a compact kitchen, every inch counts and must be put to maximum use. The result has been a resurgence in exciting, individualistic cabinet work tailored to meet specific needs and dimensions.

Beautiful, easily-shaped woods again have come into play in kitchen design, with cabinets fashioned of exquisite prestige woods like western red cedar and west coast hemlock. New plastic lacquer finishes protect these fine woods from water spotting and grease stains while capturing their natural beauties of color and graining.

Repetition of the hemlock or cedar appearing in kitchen cabinetry for wall paneling in adjacent rooms helps tie the cuisine into the home's overall decor.

Flexibility of design is increased by the wide variety of builtin dishwashers, cooking units and refrigerators available today from top manufacturers. Many a new kitchen, however, begins with an older standard range in its plans, which can be replaced by svelte counter units at a later date.

Exciting color possibilities in modern laminated plastic countertop and flooring materials add to the tiny kitchen's potential elegance, as well as its practicality.

Bird Cage Put To A New Use

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY
Written For Bell Syndicate

About two generations ago practically every house of any pretentions whatever had one or more canary bird cages, and in many cases a parrot sat on a perch or shrieked at the family from his cage.

With the change in style and tastes, these bird cages passed from the scene and were stored away in attic or cellar with the other mementos of a passed era.

Recently, there has been a revival of the bird cage as a decorative piece in many smart homes, but instead of housing a bird, the cages now hold plants and dropping vines. And in most cases they present a very attractive and highly decorative interest piece.

One of the finest examples of this new trend was shown recently. And the astonishing thing about it was that it had cost the owner but $2. The project started when he saw a perch in a secondhand store and promptly bought it for $1. A short search uncovered a cage that was pretty well banged up, which was purchased for 50 cents. A few hours of work straightened out the cage and sanded off the perch and two coats of stark white paint turned the relics into a sparkling item of decoration.

The plant used in the cage was a grape-ivy with deep, bright green leaves, and sneaking tendrils. The pot was painted the same shade of green. In a few weeks the ivy worked through the bars of the cage and wandered out in mid-air, making a truly attractive picture.

While pure white metal and dark green foliage make a striking effect, the combination can be reversed, or any other colors used that might work better with the general scheme of the room or sunporch involved.

This is but one of the thousands of small additions and improvements which the average home owner can make himself with ease and satisfaction.

Tips Are Offered On Plywood's Use For Table Tennis

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Question: I would like to make a table tennis table, using plywood for the top. The regulation size for a table is 5 feet by 9 feet.

Can I purchase plywood in this size? And can you give me any other information I can use about this project?

Answer: Plywood does not come in a standard 9' by 5' size, although some lumber yards carry it in those dimensions especially for table tennis. In our opinion, however, you would do a lot better to buy two pieces of plywood, each 4½' by 5'.

The two halves are held together for table tennis with special hinges, which have what are called Bent Loose Pins.

When these pins are removed, the table comes apart. Each half then can be used for other purposes, such as serving food or playing cards. Another reason for using the divided top is that the legs of each section can be made of the folding type, again through the use of special hinges.

This means that if the space in the recreation room is needed, the table can be unhinged, the legs folded under and the two sections stored easily in a small space. This would be impossible if the top were all in one piece.

If your lumber yard has the 5' by 9' sheet, but not the 4½' by 5', ask that it be cut in half. But be sure you specify in which direction the cut should be made.

Teamsters Replace 2 Officials At Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—Two longtime business agents of Teamsters Local 407—Walter Shinske and Frank Rubino—were defeated in a union election Sunday. Their posts were won by Joe Trito and Charles Moore.

Re-elected were business agents Edward Lee, William Dassidy and John Kalnicki.

"We pride ourselves in being a democratic union," Lee said.

Others speculated that the turnout was influenced partially by a jurisdictional problem in northern Summit County.

A few hours of work straightened out the cage and sanded off the perch and two coats of stark white paint turned the relics into a sparkling item of decoration.

The plant used in the cage was a grape-ivy with deep, bright green leaves, and sneaking tendrils. The pot was painted the same shade of green. In a few weeks the ivy worked through the bars of the cage and wandered out in mid-air, making a truly attractive picture.

While pure white metal and dark green foliage make a striking effect, the combination can be reversed, or any other colors used that might work better with the general scheme of the room or sunporch involved.

This is but one of the thousands of small additions and improvements which the average home owner can make himself with ease and satisfaction.

Tips Are Offered On Plywood's Use For Table Tennis

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Question: I would like to make a table tennis table, using plywood for the top. The regulation size for a table is 5 feet by 9 feet.

Can I purchase plywood in this size? And can you give me any other information I can use about this project?

Answer: Plywood does not come in a standard 9' by 5' size, although some lumber yards carry it in those dimensions especially for table tennis. In our opinion, however, you would do a lot better to buy two pieces of plywood, each 4½' by 5'.

The two halves are held together for table tennis with special hinges, which have what are called Bent Loose Pins.

When these pins are removed, the table comes apart. Each half then can be used for other purposes, such as serving food or playing cards. Another reason for using the divided top is that the legs of each section can be made of the folding type, again through the use of special hinges.

This means that if the space in the recreation room is needed, the table can be unhinged, the legs folded under and the two sections stored easily in a small space. This would be impossible if the top were all in one piece.

If your lumber yard has the 5' by 9' sheet, but not the 4½' by 5', ask that it be cut in half. But be sure you specify in which direction the cut should be made.

Teamsters Replace 2 Officials At Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—Two longtime business agents of Teamsters Local 407—Walter Shinske and Frank Rubino—were defeated in a union election Sunday. Their posts were won by Joe Trito and Charles Moore.

Re-elected were business agents Edward Lee, William Dassidy and John Kalnicki.

"We pride ourselves in being a democratic union," Lee said.

Others speculated that the turnout was influenced partially by a jurisdictional problem in northern Summit County.

'Fortunate,' Judge Tells Man After $200 Fine, 10-Day Term

An East End man was told today by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff that he was "fortunate" after being sentenced to 10 days in jail and fined $200 and costs for driving while under the influence of liquor and driving without an operator's permit.

Judge Chertoff told Billy Darrell Walls, 1646 Cleveland Ave., he escaped a longer jail term "only because it's the Christmas season and I won't deprive your children of Christmas."

Walls pleaded guilty to both charges. He was arrested about 4 a.m. Saturday on State St. after police noticed his car weaving on the highway.

During the hearing, the judge warned the 26-year-old defendant not to lie, explaining the penalty would be more severe. The stern warning came after he asked Walls how long ago he had secured a West Virginia operator's license.

When Walls replied six or seven years ago, the judge warned him about lying after telling Walls the license was issued in 1958 when Walls gave a Newell box number for his address although not living in West Virginia. He has resided in East Liverpool for about six years, he admitted.

Walls also had two other temporary permits, one issued in 1957 when he gave a Harvey Ave. address and the other in 1958 when he listed his present address.

The defendant also admitted being fined $213 and serving 7 days in the County Jail after appearing before County Judge James MacDonald in Lisbon Oct. 5 on the same two charges.

Judge Chertoff sentenced Walls to 30 days in the County Jail for driving without a license, but suspended 20 days on the payment of costs.

"I am going to see to it that you are not issued any permits in the future," the judge said, promising that it will be at least three years before Walls can drive again.

Walls was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to 10 days in jail on the charge of driving under the influence. However, the jail term will run concurrently with the other sentence, Judge Chertoff said.

Five other motorists also were fined for traffic violations.

Barron Foster, 819 Wood St., Wellsville, was fined $15 and costs on a speeding charge filed by the State Highway Patrol. He was cited Wednesday night on the East Liverpool-Wellsville Rd. for speeding 70 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone.

Robert D. White Jr., 632 Inez Ave., was fined $10 and costs for passing on a curve Tuesday on Route 30. He also was cited by the patrol.

Carl C. Muschwick, 1623 Ohio Ave.; William R. Sims, 718 St. Clair Ave., and Paul Herron, of Negley R. D. 1 were fined $5 and costs on charges of crashing stop signs.

Muschwick was cited Friday night for crashing the sign at Globe and Walter Sts. while Sims and Herron were cited Saturday night for failing to stop at the intersection of Walnut St. and St. Clair Ave.

Defendant Denies Charges On Check

A New Springfield woman, accused of cashing a fraudulent check here Nov. 5, was bound to the Grand Jury today after entering a not guilty plea at a hearing in Municipal Court.

A bond of $2,000 for Mrs. Ann E. Hutchison, 36, was continued by Judge Samuel M. Chertoff after Atty. George Aronson entered the innocent plea and waived a preliminary hearing.

Atty. Aronson explained to the court he was representing Mrs. Hutchison in Municipal Court only, explaining that she has been unable to secure counsel.

Mrs. Hutchison was returned here last Tuesday after being arrested in Dayton on a warrant signed by Mrs. Mary Curtis, proprietor of the New York Restaurant on the Diamond, where Mrs. Hutchison allegedly cashed the $25 check.

Mrs. Hutchison was arraigned Wednesday but her case was continued until Friday, when she told the court she had been unable to arrange for counsel. When she appeared the second time without counsel, the case was continued until today.

City, Newell Men Given $70 Fines On 4 Counts

Two men charged with creating a disturbance in a public place and resisting arrest were fined a total of $70 and costs today in Municipal Court.

Clarence R. Barber of LaCroft was fined $25 and costs on each charge while Blaine R. Butcher, 207 Harrison St., Newell, was fined $10 and costs on each charge. Both pleaded guilty.

Judge Samuel M. Chertoff explained the reason Barber was fined the larger amount was because he has been free on bond since Saturday noon while Butcher has been confined to the city jail.

The two were arrested early Saturday morning in the Diamond Restaurant on Market St., police said.

Rescue Lifeboat Sinks, But All On Board Saved

BOSTON (AP)—A Coast Guard lifeboat was stove in and sank while rescuing six men from a grounded fishing vessel in Nantucket Harbor early today but all hands swam ashore safely.

The Coast Guard duty officer at Boston said all were safe at a Nantucket residence.

The Coast Guard said the Brant Point lifeboat station on Nantucket reported at 1:53 a.m. the fishing vessel Sharon Louise aground on the extreme end of the west jetty in the harbor. Six persons aboard wanted assistance.

At 6:31 a.m. the Brant Point station reported the rescue craft had been stove in attempting to remove the crew and had sunk in the surf on the north side of Nantucket.

Scientists Set Study On New Space 'Catch'

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—How much radiation the Discoverer XVIII satellite encountered on its 48 trips around the world is expected to be determined today when Air Force scientists open up the gold-plated capsule from the satellite containing human tissue, algae, bacteria, bread mold and radiation measuring devices called dosimeters.

Dr. George W. Crawford, a nuclear physicist at the School of Aviation Medicine at Brooks Air Force Base, said a more accurate estimate could be made by midweek.

A seven-man panel of scientists last week reported that study of the Discoverer XVII capsule which orbited the earth Nov. 12-14 encountered unexpected heavy radiation because of an explosion on the sun but that it could have carried a man safely through space.

The Discoverer XVIII capsule was snagged in a similar manner by a C119 after a parachute had slowed its descent over the Pacific Ocean 400 miles from Hawaii Saturday.

2 Plane Crashes Take 35 Lives In Argentina

Near Concordia, three Americans and an Argentine died when their chartered plane crashed in stormy weather. The Argentine news agency Saporiti identified the Americans as Mary Levitt Wells, the pilot; and Thomas Cunningham and his wife Mary.

Report Issued On TB Cases

LISBON — Eight new cases of tuberculosis were reported to the State Health Department in November, according to a report released by the Board of Trustees of the Columbiana County Tuberculosis Control Clinic.

Two of these were referred to the clinic through hospitals, one by a private physician and five from Vollmer patch tests, which included two new cases of active tuberculosis and three new cases of primary tuberculosis.

One county patient was discharged from a sanitorium during the month.

A total of 350 X-rays were taken and examined by Dr. F. G. Kravec, clinic director. Of those receiving the X-rays, 128 were referred to the clinic as the result of the Heaf testing program done in county and city schools by the Public Health League.

Twelve were referred to the clinic as the result of Mantoux testing done in schools by Dr. C. S. Palmer, county health commissioners. One new case was discovered in this program.

Thirty received the Vollmer patch test done in East Liverpool schools. It was reported that staff nurses and public health nurses in East Liverpool and Salem made 355 home visits during the month.

Pacifist Gets Jail Release

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Dr. Willard Uphaus, 70, freed from a New Hampshire jail, said today his beliefs "against talebearing or bearing false witness" are as strong as ever.

The controversial pacifist and former Methodist lay preacher was released unexpectedly from Merrimack County jail in Boscawen, N. H., Sunday—two days before his scheduled departure.

Judge George R. Grant Jr. of New Hampshire Superior Court, ordered the release at the request of Uphaus' attorneys. His wife was on hand to greet him.

Uphaus issued a statement shortly after his arrival Sunday night, saying he had done "the only thing I could honorably have done."

He was jailed Dec. 14, 1959 for rejecting an official demand for names of those who attended a summer conference of the World Fellowship Center at Conway, N. H. Uphaus is executive director of the group.

The request was made in 1954 by New Hampshire Atty. Gen. Louis C. Wyman, who said he had "reliable information" that some of the guests at the conference were Communists.

Uphaus denied this and refused to turn over guest lists.

The attorney general started a contempt action. The case dragged through the courts, culminating in a refusal by the U.S. Supreme Court to turn down his conviction.

Uphaus told a newsman that his answer to a similar question now would be no different.

"Oh, yes, it will be the same," he said. "The ground on which I do this is as much a part of the moral order as the rising and setting of the sun."

Uphaus said he will begin making plans soon for another conference of the World Fellowship Center this summer.

Pacifist Gets Jail Release

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Dr. Willard Uphaus, 70, freed from a New Hampshire jail, said today his beliefs "against talebearing or bearing false witness" are as strong as ever.

The controversial pacifist and former Methodist lay preacher was released unexpectedly from Merrimack County jail in Boscawen, N. H., Sunday—two days before his scheduled departure.

Judge George R. Grant Jr. of New Hampshire Superior Court, ordered the release at the request of Uphaus' attorneys. His wife was on hand to greet him.

Uphaus issued a statement shortly after his arrival Sunday night, saying he had done "the only thing I could honorably have done."

He was jailed Dec. 14, 1959 for rejecting an official demand for names of those who attended a summer conference of the World Fellowship Center at Conway, N. H. Uphaus is executive director of the group.

The request was made in 1954 by New Hampshire Atty. Gen. Louis C. Wyman, who said he had "reliable information" that some of the guests at the conference were Communists.

Uphaus denied this and refused to turn over guest lists.

The attorney general started a contempt action. The case dragged through the courts, culminating in a refusal by the U.S. Supreme Court to turn down his conviction.

Uphaus told a newsman that his answer to a similar question now would be no different.

"Oh, yes, it will be the same," he said. "The ground on which I do this is as much a part of the moral order as the rising and setting of the sun."

Uphaus said he will begin making plans soon for another conference of the World Fellowship Center this summer.

Escapee Recaptured

CHARDON, Ohio (AP)—Richard P. Stalzer, 22, who escaped from the Geauga County jail here last Tuesday by tearing a hole in a cell wall, was back in jail today. He was arrested Sunday at the home of his wife, Jane, in Cleveland. He is being held for the grand jury on a charge of assault on a 17-year-old Cleveland girl.

Said tax shall be and is hereby ordered computed, certified, extended and levied upon the tax duplicate and collected by the same officers, in the same manner and at the same time taxes for general purposes for each of said years are certified, extended and collected. Said tax shall be placed before and in preference to all other items and for the full amount thereof. The funds derived from said tax levied hereby required shall be placed in a separate and distinct fund, which together with the interest collected on the same, shall be irrevocably pledged for the payment of the interest and principal of said notes when and as the same fall due.

SECTION 11. The City Auditor is hereby directed to forward a certified copy of this ordinance to the County Auditor.

SECTION 12. That this Ordinance is hereby declared by Council to be an emergency measure and shall be in force immediately upon passage. Said emergency lies in the fact that the present equipment is in a run down condition and is wholly inadequate to take care of the work for which it is intended and the services of the Garbage and Trash Disposal Department are curtailed and is therefore necessary to protect the health, public peace and safety of the citizens of the City of East Liverpool.

Fire Destroys Market In Cincinnati District

CINCINNATI (AP) — Fire investigators went to work on the rubble of a supermarket today to learn the cause of a fierce blaze that gave firefighters a hard night.

Fire that sent plumes of flame high in the air Sunday night destroyed the Albers chain market on U.S. 42 in the Bond Hill section of North Cincinnati.

Asst. Chief Joseph Devine of the Fire Prevention Bureau said the loss might reach $150,000.

The roof of the structure fell in with a shower of sparks before firefighters controlled the blaze. Fire officials had 25 equipment trucks at the scene.

Cold, gusty weather hampered firefighters working on the blaze. One department member suffered a scorched ear.

A patrolman in a cruiser discovered the blaze after investigating what appeared to be burning rubbish behind the building.

Realty Pioneer Taken

NEW YORK (AP) — Frederick Brown, 90, a Manhattan real estate pioneer whose transactions were reported to have involved more than $2 billion, died Saturday. He was born in Pilzen, Austria, (now Plzen, Czechoslovakia) and came to the United States when he was 18. He was active in various hospitals and charities.

At least 1½ million Americans are now making their living outside the United States.
